TungLok 90-Minute Madness gives you 30% off regular-priced Ã la carte food and regular set menus at selected TungLok Group restaurants, from 23 November to 30 December 2026. The catch is timing. The discount applies only in two fixed windows, 11am to 12.30pm or 8.30pm to 10pm, and there are no blackout dates. That includes weekends, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

How TungLok 90-Minute Madness works

You must book ahead by phone and mention the promotion. Walk-ins and online reservations do not qualify, and USHIO takes WhatsApp bookings only. Early Bird restaurants open from 11am just for this offer.

- Early Bird: 11am to 12.30pm. Finish dining, pay and leave by 12.30pm.
- Late Dinner: 8.30pm to 10pm. Finish dining, pay and leave by 10pm.

The window is fixed regardless of when you arrive. Turn up 20 minutes late and you still have to be out at the closing time, with no extension. TungLokâ??s pitch is that it is not all day, not everywhere and not for long.

Is it worth the 90-minute rush?

For a lunch table of four, a 30% cut on a Peking duck or seafood order adds up fast, and 90 minutes is enough if you order at the start. Ask the team to stagger dishes so the duck and crab land early, because the clock does not stop for a slow kitchen. For dim sum or a family catch-up, the early slot is the easier fit.

Late Dinner suits after-work groups and anyone avoiding the 7pm crush. Since Christmas Eve and Christmas Day are included, it is a decent plan B if your first-choice buffet is full. Our guide to the Holiday Inn Singapore Atrium 1-for-1 buffet is another festive option.
