

ASEAN Hyundai Cup 2026: Matchday 4 Fixtures and What They Mean for Singapore

Description

The ASEAN Hyundai Cup 2026 reaches Matchday 4 this week, and while the Singapore Lions sit out the round, the results across Group A will shape exactly how comfortable their perch at the top really is. Southeast Asia's flagship football tournament, celebrating its 30th anniversary this year, returns on Monday and Tuesday with four fixtures that could reshuffle both groups.

Fresh from a battling 0-0 draw away to Vietnam, the Lions remain top of Group A. But the group's pecking order now hinges on a heavyweight clash between two of the region's biggest names.

Why Indonesia v Vietnam matters for Singapore

On Monday, 3 August, Indonesia host Vietnam at the Pakansari Stadium in Bogor (8.30pm local, 9.30pm Singapore time). Both sides are chasing Singapore at the summit of Group A, and a decisive result would tighten the race with the Lions still to play their remaining fixtures. A draw, on the other hand, would suit Singapore nicely.

Leading the Indonesian backline is centre-back and captain Rizky Ridho, the subject of this week's Driven to Glory feature from tournament organisers SPORTFIVE. Composed on the ball and a natural leader, the 24-year-old has become the spine of a young Indonesia side that fancies its chances of going deep in the competition.

Rizky Ridho anchors the Indonesia defence at the ASEAN Hyundai Cup 2026. Image: SPORTFIVE

Matchday 4 fixtures

Monday, 3 August (Group A)

- Indonesia v Vietnam â?? Pakansari Stadium, Bogor, 9.30pm SGT
- Cambodia v Timor-Leste â?? Morodok Techo National Stadium, Phnom Penh, 6.30pm SGT

Tuesday, 4 August (Group B)

- Philippines v Thailand â?? New Clark City Athletics Stadium, Capas, 9pm SGT
- Myanmar v Laos â?? Thuwunna Stadium, Yangon, 4.30pm SGT

The wider picture

Over in Group B, Thailand have moved to the top after downing Malaysia, setting up a tricky trip to the Philippines on Tuesday. Malaysia, who had started the tournament in perfect fashion, will be watching closely. It all adds up to a fascinating week before the groups reach their decisive stages.

For a full rundown of the Lionsâ?? campaign, our Singapore results and fixtures guide has every date you need. You can also follow @aseanutdfc across social media, and the official site aseanutdfc.com, for standings, previews and broadcast listings.

Date Created

03/08/2026

Author

jadeyeo