

Bits & Bots At ArtScience Cinema: Free Robot Dreams And Iron Giant Screenings

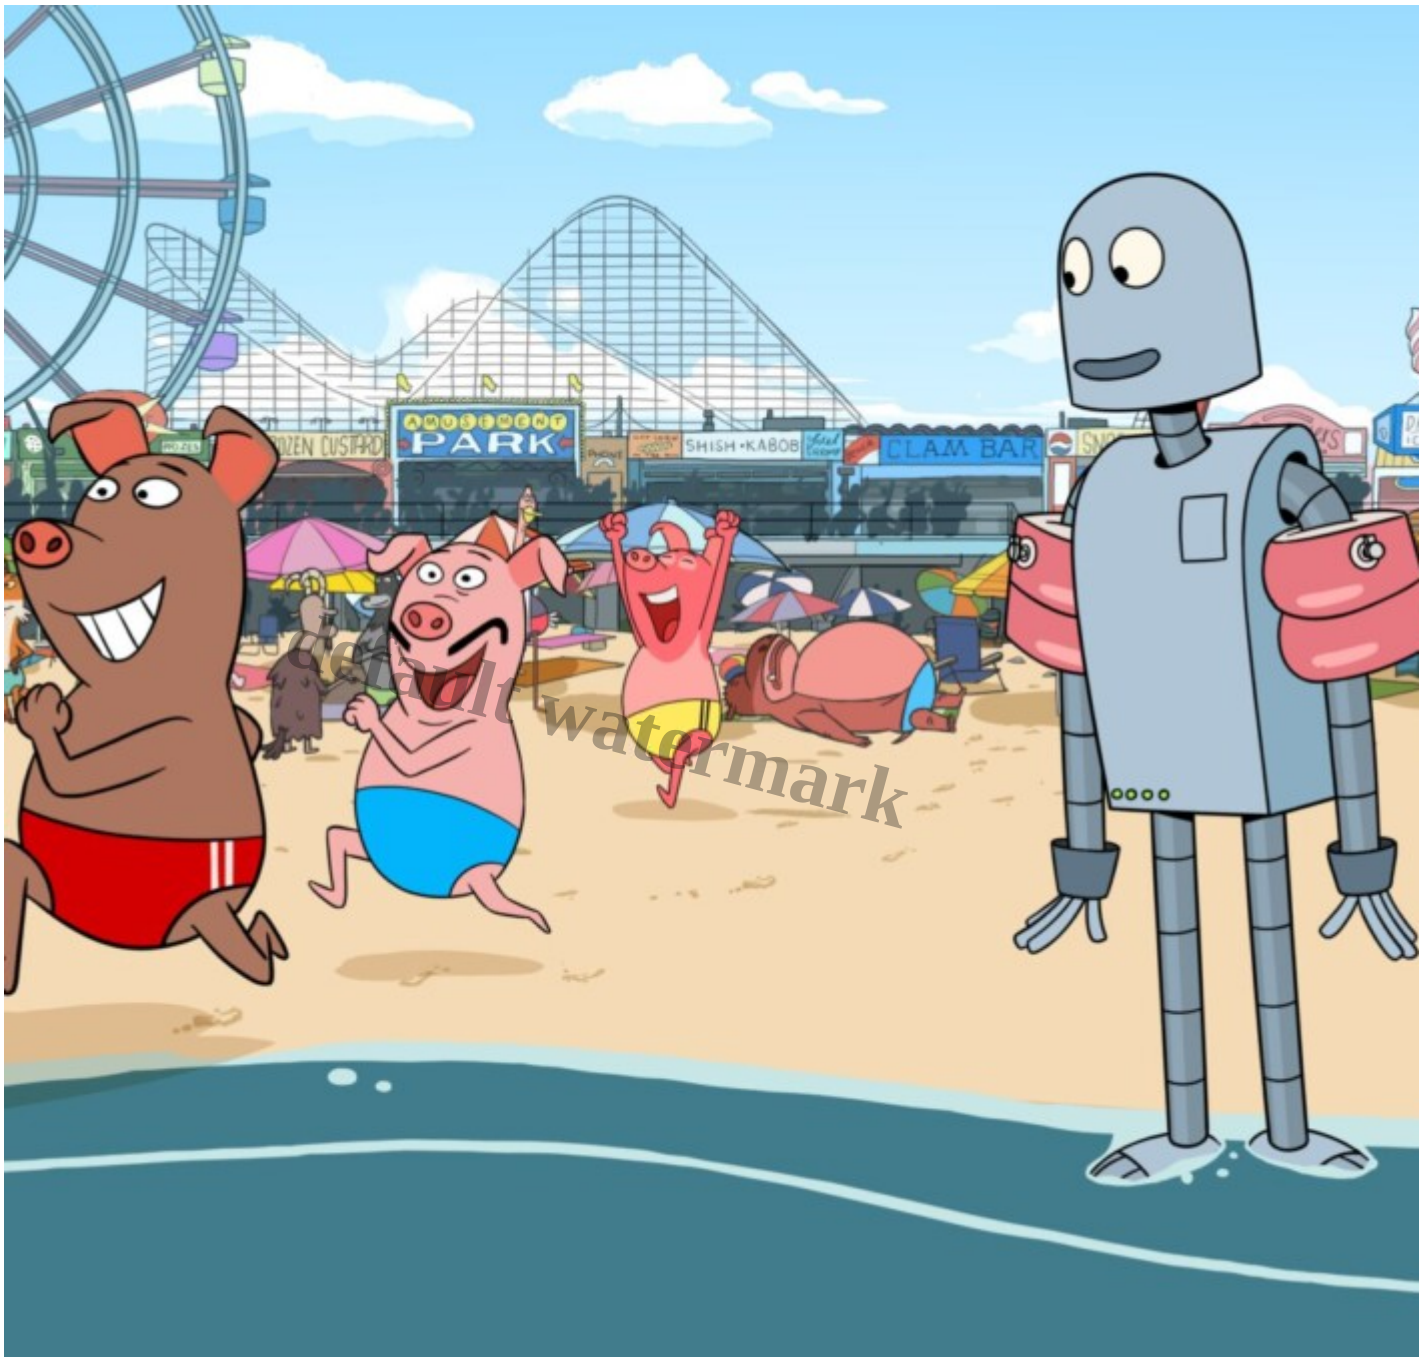

Description

Bits & Bots at ArtScience Cinema is a useful free option if you want a film outing at Marina Bay Sands without turning the day into a full paid museum visit. The programme runs from 4 May to 10 June 2026 at ArtScience Cinema, Level 4, with complimentary screenings built around animated stories of friendship, empathy and unlikely bonds.

The two headline films are Robot Dreams and The Iron Giant. That pairing makes the programme easy to explain to families: one recent hand-drawn, largely dialogue-light film about Dog and Robot in New York, and one late-1990s animation classic about a boy and a giant metal visitor in Cold War-era America.

The Films

Robot Dreams is one of the complimentary screenings in the programme.

Robot Dreams is rated PG13 for some coarse language and runs 103 minutes. ArtScience Cinema lists Friday 7pm screenings on 8, 15, 22 and 29 May, Sunday screenings on selected dates, and a 1 June screening. The film has no dialogue in the usual sense, which makes it an interesting choice for viewers who respond strongly to visual storytelling and music.

The Iron Giant is rated PG, runs 90 minutes and is screened according to the ArtScience Cinema schedule. It is probably the easier family pick for younger children who prefer a more conventional English-language story, though parents should still consider whether the filmâ??s Cold War tension and emotional ending suit their child.

How To Plan The Visit

Free admission does not mean you should arrive at the last minute. ArtScience Cinema has a limited-capacity screening room, and film schedules can change. Check the latest cinema schedule before heading down, especially if you are building the outing around one specific title.

The Iron Giant is also part of the Bits & Bots line-up.

The location is convenient if you want to pair the screening with a meal at Marina Bay Sands, a walk around the waterfront or another ArtScience Museum programme. For a paid family attraction in the same district, our MY LITTLE PONY at Gardens by the Bay guide covers a very different kind of child-friendly outing.

Parents should also check ratings and running times carefully. A free screening is still a sit-down cinema experience, and younger children may not enjoy a 90-minute or 103-minute film if they are already tired from walking around the area.
