

Blocs For Fun 2026: a S$62 New Yearâ??s Eve bouldering comp for novice and intermediate climbers at BFF Climb Bendemeer

Description

default watermark

Standard entry for Blocs For Fun 2026, BFF Climbâ??s bouldering competition on Thursday, 31 December, costs S$62 until 5 December at 11.59pm. Early-bird entry at S$52 closed on 20 November, and late entry then runs at S$72 until 20 December at 11.59pm. The comp is only for novice and intermediate climbers, there is no minimum age, and the fee also gets you into the countdown party that follows from 9.30pm to 1am.

default watermark

Blocs For Fun 2026 artwork from the competition website. Illustration: BFF Climb

Venue and categories

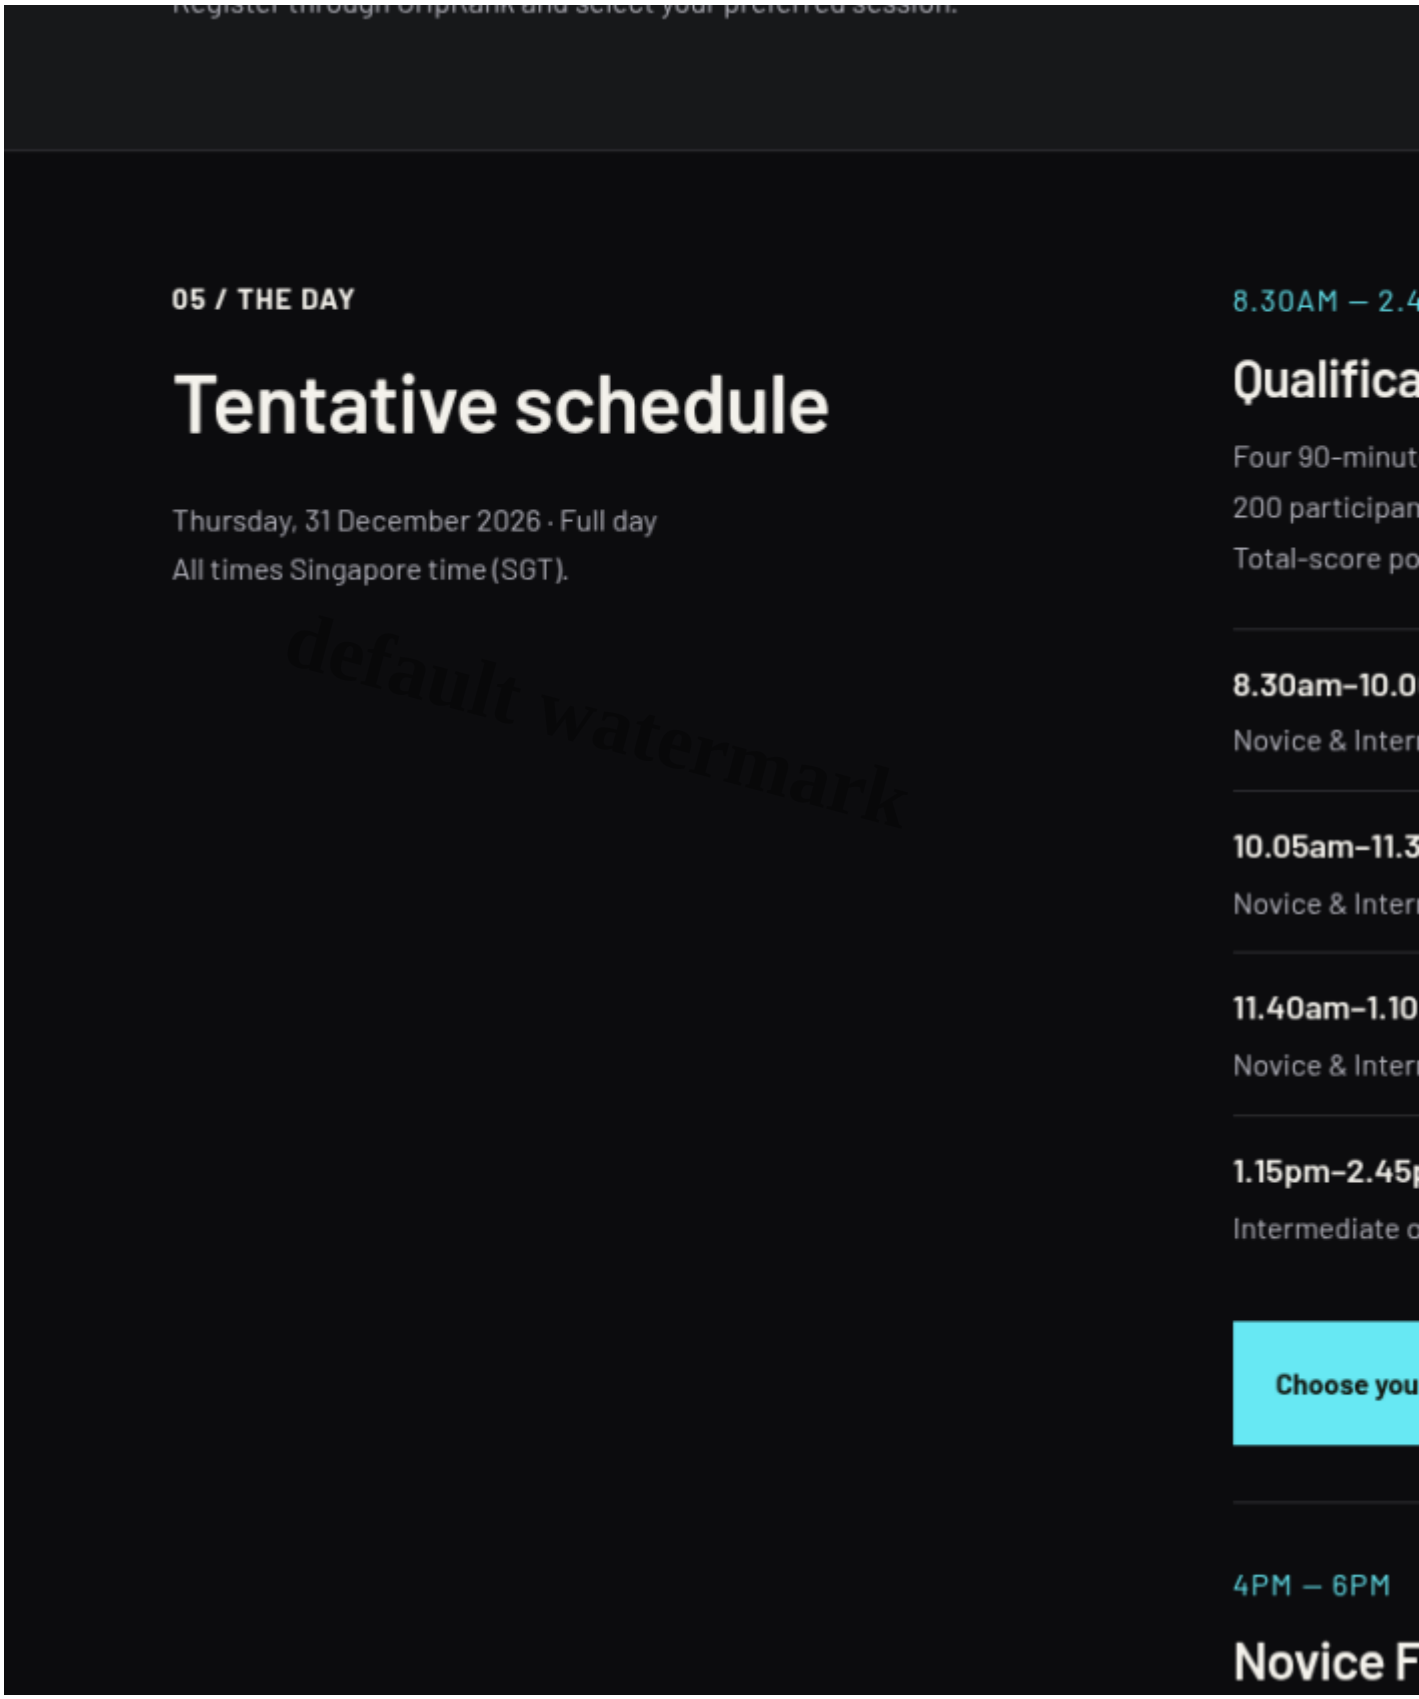

Everything happens indoors at BFF Climb Bendemeer, 2 Kallang Avenue, #01-20, CT Hub @ Kallang. There are four categories: Novice men, Novice women, Intermediate men and Intermediate women.

Novice is for climbers who have never reached a final in Novice or any higher category at a local promotional competition in Singapore. Intermediate is closed to anyone who has finished in the top three in Intermediate or made an Open final at one of those comps. National team climbers, senior or youth, from Singapore or elsewhere in the region cannot enter either category.

How qualification works

You pick a 90-minute qualification session when you register. Each session takes up to 50 climbers, and the whole comp is capped at 200. Three sessions, starting at 8.30am, 10.05am and 11.40am, are open to both levels. The 1.15pm to 2.45pm session is for Intermediate climbers only. BFF Climb lists the whole dayâ??s schedule as tentative.

default watermark

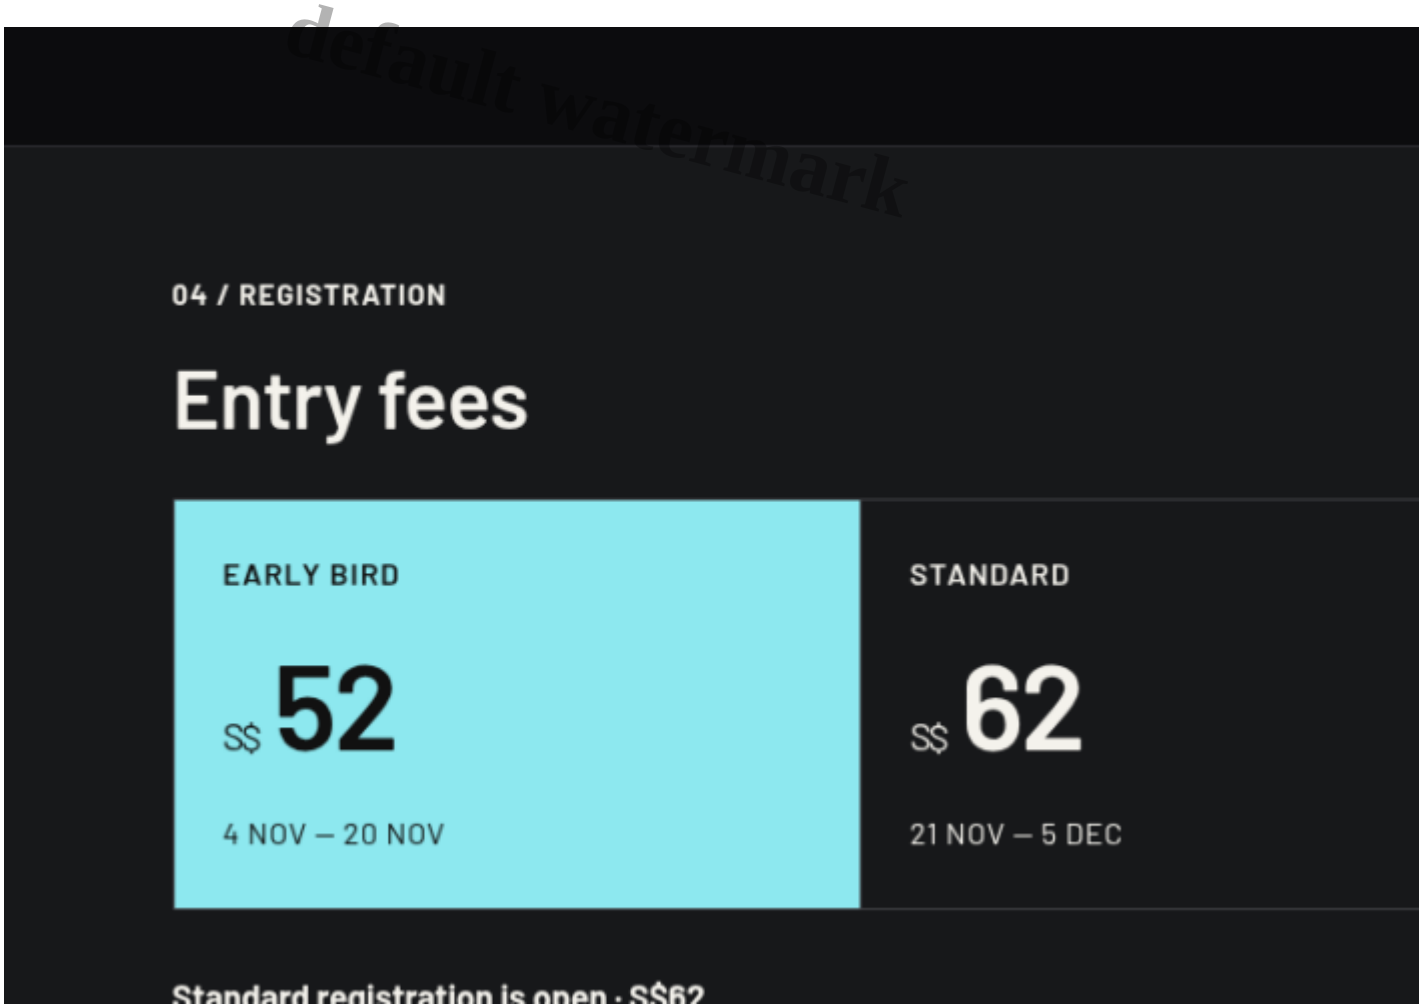

The tentative qualification schedule for 31 December 2026. Image: BFF Climb

There are 28 routes, graded 7 to 13 on the gymâ??s scale, with most of the setting between 7 and 10. Qualification is carnival style on an honour system: you choose which problems to try and record your own tops. Zones do not score. Route 1 is worth 10 points, rising to 280 points for Route 28. A flash earns the full value. A top on any later attempt loses one point, and only once, so topping Route 1 on your fifth go still earns 9.

Finals and prizes

The top six in each category reach the finals, or up to eight if there are ties. Finalists get four routes with four minutes on each, climbed at the same time and judged by officials. Novice finals run from 4pm to 6pm and Intermediate finals from 7.30pm to 9.30pm, timings that are also tentative.

Winners in all four categories get a three-month season pass, 10 multipasses, a medal and retail prizes. Second place earns a two-month season pass and five multipasses, and third a one-month season pass and three multipasses, each with a medal and retail prizes.

Blocs For Fun 2026 entry fees. Standard entry runs from 21 November to 5 December. Image: BFF Climb

Signing up and getting some practice in Registration is on GripRank, where you also choose your session. Questions about which category fits go to events@bffclimb.com.

To get to know the Bendemeer walls first, a single entry there costs S$27.25 for climbers aged 13 and above, and children aged 5 to 12 need an adult with them, one adult to two children. A Youth Pass for climbers 18 and under costs S$17.44, works at any outlet on weekdays from 9.30am to 6pm except public holidays, and is valid during the school holidays.

Date Created
26/11/2026
Author
jadeyeo

default watermark