

Bouillon Gavroche Opens At Mandarin Gallery With Paris Classics

Description

Bouillon Gavroche gives Orchard Road a traditional Parisian bouillon address, with the restaurant now open at Mandarin Gallery. The format is useful for diners who want French staples without turning the meal into a long, formal occasion.

The restaurant lists daily opening hours from 11.30am to 10pm at 333A Orchard Road, Mandarin Gallery #01-16/17. Its own positioning is direct: familiar French dishes, carafe wines, desserts and a dining room that works for lunch, dinner or a casual catch-up in town.

What To Expect

The bouillon style is built around accessible French cooking rather than fine-dining ceremony. Bouillon Gavroche highlights dishes such as Boeuf Bourguignon, Saucisse Puree, desserts and wines served by the carafe, which makes the place easier to use for a group where not everyone wants a full degustation experience.

For readers who remember Gavroche as a familiar Singapore French name, this is a more casual city-centre angle. Mandarin Gallery also gives it a practical advantage: it sits beside major Orchard MRT connections, hotels, malls and cinemas, so it can work as a planned dinner or a convenient central meet-up.

- Address: 333A Orchard Road, Mandarin Gallery #01-16/17, Singapore 238897.
- Opening hours listed by the restaurant: daily, 11.30am to 10pm.

How To Use It

The sweet spot is a weekday lunch, a pre-movie dinner or a family meal where classic dishes are easier to share. If you are planning around Orchard Road crowds, make the booking first, then build the rest of the visit around Mandarin Gallery, Ngee Ann City and Somerset MRT.

The official restaurant page carries the current contact details and menu direction. Pair it with our Food & Drinks coverage if you are comparing new town-area openings for the same weekend.
