Set against floor-to-ceiling windows and a relaxed brasserie setting in the heart of Singaporeâ??s civic district, The Stamford Brasserie has always been a place to pause â?? whether for a working breakfast, a leisurely lunch, or a laid-back catch-up with friends. For football season, the brasserie is leaning fully into the occasion, extending its dining hours and rolling out a menu built to fuel every match from first half to extra time.

Breakfast Before the Match

Early fixtures are no problem â?? breakfast is served daily from 7.00am to 11.30am, so you can settle in with a proper meal before the action begins. The breakfast menu is built around three crowd-pleasers: the Canadian ($22) with brown butter pancakes, thick-cut bacon, maple syrup and salted butter; the American ($26), a breakfast burger stacked with fried egg, American cheddar and pork sausage patty; and the Mexican ($24), a huevos tostada topped with chorizo, egg, avocado and pico de gallo.

Lunch, Afternoon, and Late-Night Bites

From lunch onwards, the sharing plates take over. Pull up a chair for Buffalo Chicken Drumlets ($24), Chicken or Beef Satay ($24), an Arabic Mezze Platter ($18), or classic Fish & Chips ($42) â?? comfort-driven fare that pairs well with cold drinks and live sport. For late-night matches, the kitchen keeps going with snacks until 1.30am. Grab & Go pastries and desserts from the hotelâ??s pastry team are also available throughout the day.

Drinks to Match the Occasion

The drinks lineup is as important as the food. Look out for 1-for-1 draft beer promotions, beer bucket specials, and spirited coffee options â?? the Irish Coffee and French Coffee are worth sticking around for after the final whistle. Itâ??s the kind of spread that makes The Stamford Brasserie an easy answer to â??where are we watching the game?â?•
