

Cold Storage x Giant Kids Run 2026: Sentosa Family Race Guide

Description

Cold Storage x Giant Kids Run 2026 is now the June family race to put on the calendar. The official event site lists the run for 28 June 2026 at Siloso Beach, Sentosa, with a beachside format that keeps the morning focused on children, parents and practical family participation.

This yearâ??s useful change is the addition of parent race categories. The Mighty Dads Dash and Power Mums Race give parents a starting-line role instead of leaving them only as spectators, while the yuu-Zu Family Fun category remains the stroller-friendly option for families with younger children.

What Families Need To Know

The event page says registration closes on 21 June 2026. It also states that child ages are taken as of 28 June 2026, which matters when choosing between the competitive childrenâ??s races and the non-competitive family option.

The page lists a DBS/POSB cardmember discount of 10 per cent while the discount lasts. Families should settle registration before making firm transport plans, because the official site frames the event as a registered race morning rather than a walk-in beach activity.

Getting There

The official site says free shuttle bus services will ferry participants from Beach Station to Siloso Beach. That detail is useful for families carrying race packs, bottles and spare clothes, because walking across Sentosa with young children can take longer than expected before flag-off.

Plan the morning as a sports outing first and a beach day second. If the family intends to stay on Sentosa after the run, pack sun protection, a change of clothes and enough buffer between race categories so younger children are not rushed between activities.

Why It Works

Childrenâ??s races can be intimidating when they feel too competitive. This event keeps a wider family structure: competitive categories for children, parent races for adults and a family fun category for shared participation.
