Dom Dolla plays his first headline show in Singapore tonight, Friday 27 November, at the Pasir Panjang Power Station. Doors open at 8pm, last entry is at 11pm, and the night is strictly 18 and over. General Admission tickets were S$168 on Megatix at the time of writing on Friday morning, with the VIP Package at S$288 and booking fees on top.

The Australian house producer arrives with a Grammy nomination for his remix of Gorillazâ??s New Gold and four ARIA Awards. His 2022 single Miracle Maker, with Clementine Douglas, was named BBC Radio 1â??s Hottest Record In The World, and later releases such as Eat Your Man with Nelly Furtado, Saving Up, CAVE with Tove Lo and Dreamin with Daya have taken his catalogue past one billion streams. Collective Minds, the promoter, bills tonight as one night only, after a sold-out stadium debut at Allianz Stadium in Sydney and two sold-out nights at Madison Square Garden.

The support acts

Three DJs open the night. Dean Turnley, from Australia, co-founded Sundancer and took Actinâ?? Tough to number one on Beatport. Kylie Nicole is the Singapore name on the bill, playing ghetto house, hip-hop, breaks and garage. Nat Dunn, from Hong Kong, plays deep house and indie dance. Set times have not been published, and timings can change on the night.

Tickets and what VIP gets you

There are two tiers. General Admission covers the main dance floor. The VIP Package adds priority entry through a separate lane, a dedicated viewing area, access to the platform behind the DJ booth, its own bar and toilets, and one drink voucher. Both tiers were still on sale at the time of writing, and each carried a limited-stock notice. Sales are final and non-refundable.

If you have not bought yet, a limited number of door tickets go on sale subject to capacity. Door sales are cashless, by card or mobile payment only.

Getting in

The venue is at 27 Pasir Panjang Road, a short walk from Labrador Park MRT. Parking is available at nearby buildings such as Alexandra Retail Centre, though the promoter recommends public transport or ride-hailing.

There is no re-entry, and wristbands or tickets need to stay visible all night. Bags are searched at the door, so a small one is easier; bag deposit at the entrance costs extra. Phones are fine, but professional cameras and video gear are not allowed, and neither are outside food and drink, vapes or smoking devices, sharp objects and illegal substances. A designated smoking area sits inside the venue.

At the bar

Happy hour runs from 8pm to 10pm, with a Paloma or a Margarita at S$15 each while stocks last. No merchandise is being sold at the venue.

Tickets are on Megatix, and the full FAQ sits on the Collective Minds event listing.
