If your idea of a good weekend involves fresh produce, hands-on workshops and somewhere for the kids to get stuck in, the last weekend of August has you covered. Little Farms and Tanglin Mall are teaming up for the Eco Farmers Market on 29 and 30 August 2026, a two-day celebration of good food, family and more conscious everyday living.

More than 30 food, wellness and sustainability brands will gather across Tanglin Mall's Level 1 Atrium, outdoor walkway and garden, joined by a packed programme of workshops, tastings and wellness sessions. Admission is free, and the timing doubles up nicely as Little Farms marks its 10th anniversary.

A curated market for better food

At the heart of the event is the Farmer's Market, curated by Little Farms around producers it has long championed. Expect names like Annie's fresh dairy, Honest to Goodness organic pantry staples, Beant Ballout Lebanese extra virgin olive oil, Eden Orchards seasonal fruit, Mr. Bucket Chocolaterie, Marshfield Farm Ice Cream and homegrown non-alcoholic craft beer Tiny.

Running alongside it, the Eco Market gathers businesses making sustainable living easier, from Wendy's Kampong Garden and ReRootSG composting to BeanGO's spent-coffee-ground products, refillable essentials from Purple & Pure and plastic-free haircare by The Powder Shampoo.

Hands-on fun for the whole family

Younger visitors can get their hands dirty at the Little Farmers Workshop with Grobrix, germinating seedlings to take home, or decorate a bean-to-bar chocolate slab with Mr. Bucket Chocolaterie. There is storytelling and upcycling with EcoBubs, and a nutritionist-led session, Eat Like a Detective, where families hunt for hidden sugars and “food monsters” with Sandra Lim and Hannah Oh.

Perks and practical details

Shoppers who spend S$80 in same-day combined receipts at Tanglin Mall retailers during the event can redeem an exclusive Little Farms tote bag and vouchers from participating brands, while stocks last. The market is also supported by the Ministry of Sustainability and the Environment, with a recycling collection drive for clean plastic, paper and metal.
