If you run a small business, a side hustle or a hobby blog, a year-end website refresh is usually the cheapest time to do it. The Exabytes Black Friday hosting deals run from 12 November to 30 November 2026 at 11.59pm Singapore time, with up to 80% off hosting. Plans start from S$13.40 a month, and the sale is for new orders only.

Exabytes is a Singapore-based hosting provider, and the figures below come straight from its official Black Friday page.

Exabytes Black Friday hosting deals: the four plans

There are four main AI hosting plans, each with a strikethrough list price and a sale price per month.

- EBiz 17 Mini: S$13.40 a month (was S$66.99, save 80%), with two websites and 15GB of NVMe SSD storage
- EBiz 17 AI Plus: S$23.99 a month (was S$94.99, save 75%), with 60 websites, 80GB of storage and a free domain for the first year
- EBiz 17 AI Pro: S$29.99 a month (was S$138.99, save 78%), with unlimited websites, 160GB of storage and a lifetime free domain
- EBiz 17 AI Max: S$78.99 a month (was S$314.99, save 75%), with unlimited websites, 320GB of storage and a lifetime free domain

All four include free unlimited SSL, premium anti-spam and the Plesk control panel. Plus, Pro and Max add AI-powered tools, daily backups and a 100-day money-back guarantee. Mini gets weekly backups and is the one plan excluded from that guarantee.

Which plan suits whom

1. One simple site or a parked domain: Mini is the cheap way in, but weekly backups and no money-back guarantee mean it suits low-stakes projects.
2. A small business with a brochure site and a few email accounts: AI Plus covers it, and the free first-year domain takes care of the registration cost.
3. An agency, a freelancer or someone running many sites: AI Pro or Max, where websites and email accounts are unlimited.

Our pick for most small firms is AI Plus. It has daily backups, a money-back window and enough storage for a normal business site, at S$23.99 a month. Pro is worth the extra S$6 only if you truly manage several sites.

Domains, VPS and email

The sale also covers the add-ons you usually buy at the same time.

- .com.sg domain: as low as S$27.99 for the first year, with a 2-year registration required (S$92.98 total today)
- .com domain: as low as S$18.52 a year, for new registrations only, listed at 39% off
- NVMe VPS with n8n: from S$20.71 a month, with a buy 1 get 2 months free offer
- Business email on your own domain: from S$26.98 a month

Read the domain line carefully. The S$27.99 figure is a first-year price tied to a 2-year registration, so the S$92.98 payable at checkout covers more than the headline suggests, and the second year will cost more. Check the renewal price before you commit.

The fine print that matters

- The promotion is valid from 12 November 2026, 00:00 to 30 November 2026, 23:59 Singapore time.
- It is for new orders only, and does not apply to renewals, transfers, upgrades or downgrades.
- All prices are subject to 9% GST.
- The 100-day money-back guarantee covers hosting fees only, and excludes domain registration, add-ons and setup fees.
- Exabytes can extend, modify or end the promotion without notice.

The page also runs a Host and Win campaign: spend S$50 or more in a single receipt to earn spins for prizes, and the more you spend, the more spins you get. Terms apply, so do not buy something you do not need just to chase a spin.

If you are switching from another host, Exabytesâ?? page says it will extend your new planâ??s renewal date by up to 12 months to match the time you have left with the old provider. That could soften the cost of moving mid-contract, though you should confirm the exact terms with the company before you cancel anything.

Paying for it

If you are a company, the Enterprise Credit scheme is worth a look before you pay out of pocket: see our note on the SkillsFuture Enterprise Credit, where the old credit ends on 30 November and a new S$10,000 starts on 1 December. If you are building a site to show off AI skills, the SWDA report on AI skills in job postings shows why that portfolio is worth the effort.

Less than a week is left. If a site has been on your list, this is the sensible time to finally order.
