

Family Days At National Gallery Singapore: June Holiday Workshops To Book

Description

National Gallery Singapore has a June holiday family guide that is useful because it separates ticketed workshops from free evergreen spaces. For parents, that means you can build either a booked workshop day or a low-cost gallery visit.

The main listed programmes include GalleryToddlers!, Messy Morning for the Little Ones and Let's Create! Chinese Ink Workshop.

The important difference is age fit. Toddlers need shorter sensory sessions, while older primary-school children can handle the longer artist-led workshop and a gallery walk before or after it.

Key Programmes

GalleryToddlers! is listed for 6 June, with 10.30am to 11.10am and 11.30am to 12.10pm sessions at the City Hall Wing Level 2 Digital Immersive Space. The page lists tickets at S$15 per adult-child pair.

Messy Morning for the Little Ones is listed for 2 June from 10.30am to 11.30am at Keppel Centre for Art Education, with tickets at S$20 per adult-child pair. The Chinese ink workshop is listed for 18 June from 10.30am to noon, with S$20 per participant tickets.

- GalleryToddlers!: children aged 2 to 3.
- Messy Morning: sensory play for little ones and grown-ups.
- Let's Create! Chinese Ink Workshop: recommended for children aged 7 to 12.
- Keppel Centre for Art Education: free family-friendly spaces.

Messy Morning for the Little Ones is listed for 2 June.

How To Choose

For toddlers, pick one short ticketed session and leave time for the Keppel Centre. For primary school children, the Chinese ink workshop is the more distinctive choice because it includes an artist-led family format.

If workshops are full, the refreshed Keppel Centre is still worth the trip. It keeps the visit flexible and gives children several hands-on zones without a separate exhibition ticket.
