

Great Eastern Women's Run 2026: 20th Anniversary Race Guide

Description

Great Eastern Women's Run 2026 is positioned as the event's 20th anniversary edition. The listing places it at Singapore National Stadium on Sunday, 1 November 2026, from 5am to 11am.

The run has been around since 2006 and is billed as Southeast Asia's largest all-women's running event, so this edition is likely to draw both regular runners and women returning for the milestone year.

Event Snapshot

- Date: 1 November 2026.
- Time: 5am to 11am.
- Venue: Singapore National Stadium.
- Listed starting price: S$22.
- Theme line: two decades of breaking limits, one unstoppable community.

How To Think About Training

Because the event is months away, late May is a sensible time for beginners to start walking or run-walk training instead of waiting for the final eight weeks. The early start also helps returning runners build consistency without overloading.

Groups should decide early whether the goal is personal timing, social running or a family-friendly morning at the Sports Hub. That choice changes the training plan, race category and arrival timing.

Related Running Calendar

For runners building a longer calendar, LBRD has covered the BYD Singapore International Marathon 2026. Families comparing race-day crowd logistics can also look at the OCBC Cycle 2026 weekend guide.

Location Notes

- Singapore National Stadium

Booking, registration or visitor details are on the Great Eastern Women's Run 2026 page.

Date Created

26/05/2026

Author

jadeyeo

default watermark