Concession tickets cover youths aged 5 to 17, students, seniors aged 60 and above, full-time national servicemen and persons with disabilities.

Booking fees and discounts

A booking fee is added to every ticket. It is S$2 on tickets up to S$20, S$3 above S$20 and up to S$40, S$4 above S$40 and up to S$50, S$5 above S$50 and up to S$70, and S$6 on anything above S$70.

Members of The Kallang Kaki programme, which you join through The Kallang app, get 15 per cent off. That discount is for standard tickets only, is capped at six tickets per transaction, and the promo code works once.

Tickets are sold through AXS at axs.com/hsbc-svns-2027 or on +65 6348 5555, with a limit of 20 per purchase. Requests for accessible seating also go through AXS. No refund policy has been published for the event.

Who can go, and what to leave at home

Children aged 4 and under get in free if they do not take up a seat, and anyone aged 12 and under must be with an adult.

Outside food and drink are not allowed, though food and drink are on sale inside. Water bottles are fine if they are not glass and are empty at entry. Bags larger than 35cm by 20cm by 30cm, noisemakers such as air horns and whistles, vapes, fan boards bigger than A3, and flags or banners with offensive slogans, political messages or advertising are banned. So are cameras with lenses longer than 200mm, GoPros and selfie sticks.

The event starts at 8am on Saturday and 9.30am on Sunday. Door opening times have not been announced yet. The official seating plan marks the West Zone as exposed to the weather, which matters for a full day in late January.

Getting there

Stadium MRT on the Circle Line is the nearest station, with direct access to The Kallang. Tanjong Rhu on the Thomson-East Coast Line is a 9-minute walk, and Kallang on the East-West Line is a 13-minute sheltered walk.
