

Joji Solaris Singapore 2026: EXPO Arena Concert Guide

Description

Joji is bringing the Solaris tour to Singapore EXPO Arena on 21 and 22 November 2026. Singapore EXPO lists the shows at Arena @ EXPO and describes an all-new production, with familiar tracks such as Glimpse of Us and Slow Dancing in the Dark alongside first live performances from the new album Piss In The Wind.

For fans, the venue is the main planning point. EXPO is efficient for east-side travel and Changi-area stays, but it needs a different transport plan from Indoor Stadium or Marina Bay Sands concerts. Build the night around Expo MRT, queue timing and food before the show.

What Fans Should Know

Two dates give fans more choice, but they can also split demand across different ticket categories. If you are going with friends, decide early whether seat location, price ceiling or date matters most. That prevents slow group decisions when sales open or when resale choices appear later.

The Solaris description points to a new production, so do not treat the Singapore stop as just a playlist night. Fans who care about staging should watch for official seat maps and production notes closer to the show.

Venue Planning

Expo MRT is the easiest base for most readers. If you drive, check parking and exit timing because post-concert vehicle flow can be slow. If you are eating first, choose dinner before joining the queue rather than counting on quick food once the crowd builds.

- Nearest MRT: Expo.
- Good meeting point: inside Singapore EXPO before security lines build.
- Plan return transport before the encore if you are not taking MRT.

The EXPO listing points fans to an all-new production for the Solaris tour.
