

Kallang Wave Mall Deals Ending 31 July 2026

Description

Two Kallang Wave Mall campaigns currently end on 31 July 2026, but they suit different people. Tasty Treats is the simpler option for anyone already dining at a participating outlet. Office Privileges requires programme membership and three in-store e-Deal uses, so it is relevant mainly to eligible nearby workers.

Last checked: 15 July 2026. Event and promotion details can change; use the linked organiser page before travelling or paying.

Which Kallang Wave Mall deal is better?

Offer	What you must do	Reward	Useful value check
Tasty Treats weekday	Spend at least S$20 in one receipt at a participating F&B outlet	S$3 eCapitaVoucher	15% of the minimum qualifying spend
Tasty Treats weekend	Spend at least S$50 in one receipt at a participating F&B outlet	S$6 eCapitaVoucher	12% of the minimum qualifying spend
Office Privileges	Be an eligible member and redeem/use three Office Privileges e-Deals in store	5,000 STAR$	Check current CapitaStar conversion and credit timing before treating STAR$ as cash

The percentage figures are Little Big Red Dot calculations: reward divided by the minimum spend. They compare thresholds, not the value of the meal itself, and they do not account for any extra spend above the minimum.

Tasty Treats: strongest at exactly the threshold

The official campaign runs from 1 May to 31 July at participating Kallang Wave Mall food-and-beverage outlets. A weekday single receipt of at least S$20 earns a S$3 eCapitaVoucher; a weekend single receipt of at least S$50 earns S$6.

The weekday threshold has the higher nominal return. At S$20, S$3 equals 15%; at S$50, S$6 equals 12%. The return falls as the receipt grows: a S$3 reward on S$40 is 7.5%, while a S$6 reward on S$100 is 6%. This does not mean splitting a bill is permitted—the public summary says single receipt, and the full terms govern whether multiple receipts, redemptions or outlets qualify.

The sensible use case is an already-planned meal that naturally clears the threshold. Do not add an unwanted item merely to trigger a smaller voucher; the incremental spend can erase the reward.

Office Privileges: eligibility matters more than headline points

The Office Privileges page promotes more than 70 e-Deals in the CapitaStar app. Eligible people working in the vicinity register through the mall concierge with a name card, then redeem and use three Office Privileges e-Deals in store to receive 5,000 STAR$.

The page presents both a “now until 31 July” reward message and a separate line referring to a 1 May–31 January window. Because those dates are inconsistent on the same official page, this guide uses 31 July as the conservative deadline and recommends confirming the active campaign card inside CapitaStar before starting a three-redemption sequence.

STAR$ are loyalty points, not a bank deposit. Their real value depends on the current CapitaStar conversion and redemption conditions. Check whether the reward posts automatically, when it expires, and whether the three e-Deals must be distinct before assigning it a cash value.

Redemption checklist

1. Open the current offer or campaign card before ordering or paying.
2. Confirm that the outlet and transaction type are participating.
3. Check the correct day-based Tasty Treats threshold or Office Privileges membership status.
4. Keep the original receipt until the reward appears.
5. Take a screenshot of the published mechanic and expiry date in case the claim requires support.
6. Do not assume that expired, online-only or merely saved e-Deals count as in-store use.

Who should skip these offers?

Skip Tasty Treats if reaching the threshold requires overspending, or if the preferred restaurant is not participating. Skip Office Privileges if you are not an eligible member or cannot realistically use three e-Deals before the conservative 31 July deadline. A reward is not a saving when it changes a purchase you would not otherwise make.

If the mall visit is tied to a match or concert, compare arrival and door times in the Singapore stadium events guide. More independently checked promotions sit in Little Big Red Dot’s Deals section.
