Two distances, one price

Both categories cost the same S$16, so the choice comes down to pace. The 8.6km fun run flags off at 7.30am and the 4.3km walk-a-jog follows at 7.40am. Finishers in either category get a medal at the line.

- 8.6km fun run: S$16, flag-off 7.30am
- 4.3km walk-a-jog: S$16, flag-off 7.40am

Extra fees or discounts may apply at checkout, and remaining places and the final total show only after you log in to OnePA.

The 4.3km is billed as a walk-a-jog, and neither distance has a published cut-off time.

Children and families

Children aged 12 and below must register for the 4.3km walk-a-jog, not the 8.6km. Children aged six and below do not need to register at all. T-shirts come in sizes from 4XS to 7XL, and sizes cannot be exchanged after you pick one, so check the size chart on the OnePA page before paying.

The fine print

Registrations are non-refundable, and you cannot switch categories once you have signed up. There is no bag deposit, so the organiser advises travelling light and arriving in the event T-shirt with the bib already on. T-shirt and bib collection details go out by SMS and on social media.

If the weather turns, the organiser can delay the start. If the bad weather persists, the physical run can be cancelled without a refund. Route marshals and a first-aid team will be on site.

Getting to Bedok Reservoir Park

Bedok Reservoir MRT station (DT30) on the Downtown Line is the closest, a 200m walk from the park. Buses 21, 228, 5, 59 and 65 also stop nearby.

The 41.7-hectare park sits on a former sand quarry and is open 24 hours. Its jogging track is a 4.3km gravel loop around the reservoir. No route map has been published for either distance.
