Where Heritage Meets Social Living

lyf is designed for modern travellers who value connection as much as convenience. Unlike traditional hotel stays, lyf properties centre around shared spaces that encourage interaction â?? and the Chinatown location takes that philosophy a step further by embedding the brand into one of Singaporeâ??s most culturally significant neighbourhoods.

The development has been thoughtfully designed to honour the areaâ??s rich cultural and heritage significance. The Chinatown district carries a long history tied to the Chulia community, and the property aims to connect guests with the stories, textures, and traditions of the neighbourhood it calls home.

Communal Spaces Designed for Connection

lyf properties are built around a set of branded social zones that go beyond the typical hotel amenity checklist. Guests at lyf Chinatown Singapore can look forward to:

- BOND â?? a casual social lounge where travellers can unwind, chat, and connect with fellow guests
- COLLAB â?? a co-working and co-living space that caters to digital nomads and work-from-anywhere travellers
- BURN â?? a well-equipped gym for those who like to keep up their fitness routine on the road
- DIP â?? a pool area for rest and recreation
- Say Hi â?? the brandâ??s welcoming reception concept, designed to feel less like a front desk and more like a warm hello

The Rooms

The propertyâ??s 90 units include the Nano Queen Plus configuration â?? a compact but thoughtfully designed room that makes smart use of space without compromising on comfort. True to the lyf brand, the rooms are intended as a place to rest and recharge, while the communal areas are where the real staying experience unfolds.
