

[Media Preview] Paint your mum (literally) this Mother's Day at Anchorpoint
No skills required, just love (and cupcakes)!

Description

Anchorpoint. You know where this place is? It is opposite IKEA Alexandra. It is just across the road from Queensway Shopping Centre. It is not the most popular shopping centre to many Singaporeans. However, there is a good reason to visit it this May.

Anchorpoint is conducting a Portrait Painting Workshop on the 10 and 11 May 2025. This painting workshop is called "A Portrait of Love". It will take place at the B1 Atrium of Anchorpoint. Participants will get to paint a portrait of their mum (or maternal figure).

Here are the details of "A Portrait of Love":

Event Details:

📍 Location: B1 Atrium, Anchorpoint, 370 Alexandra Rd, Singapore 159953

📅 Event Dates: 10 & 11 May 2025

🕒 Workshop Timings:

o 1:00PM - 2:00PM

o 2:30PM - 3:30PM

o 4:00PM - 5:00PM

🎫 Ticket Pricing: Includes a Cupcake from The Marmalade Pantry

o $38 per person

o 10% off for 2 pax

o 20% off for 4 or more pax

What to Expect:

🎨 A fun, no pressure painting session where you and your mum (or maternal figure) can paint portraits of each other

👨‍👩‍👧‍👦 A creative and family-friendly atmosphere for all ages, including kids!

🍰 A cupcake from The Marmalade Pantry to sweeten the experience

🛍️ Special shopping vouchers from Anchorpoint tenants to help you treat mum even more

The event is open to the public, with limited slots available. To secure your canvas, please sign up here: <https://tinyurl.com/ACPMothersDay>

You can follow Anchorpoint and #APortraitofLove on:

Website: www.anchorpoint.com.sg/

Facebook: www.facebook.com/anchorpoint.sg/

Instagram: www.instagram.com/anchorpoint_sg/

TikTok: www.tiktok.com/@anchorpoint_sg

The Little Big Red Dot media team was invited to a preview of the event on the 4th of May 2025. We sent Hamimah and her daughter.

Apparently Hamimah did a painting of her mother and her daughter did one of her.

Oh and Anchorpoint looks different from how we remember it to be. Apparently it went through a revamp.

default watermark

Really quite a lot of effort to set this up.

default watermark

Here are what is to be used for the event.

Although it looks intimidating due to the set up, it is not something that is so daunting that young children cannot undertake.

Yes, it is applicable for almost all ages. These children were very young but were thoroughly engaged throughout.

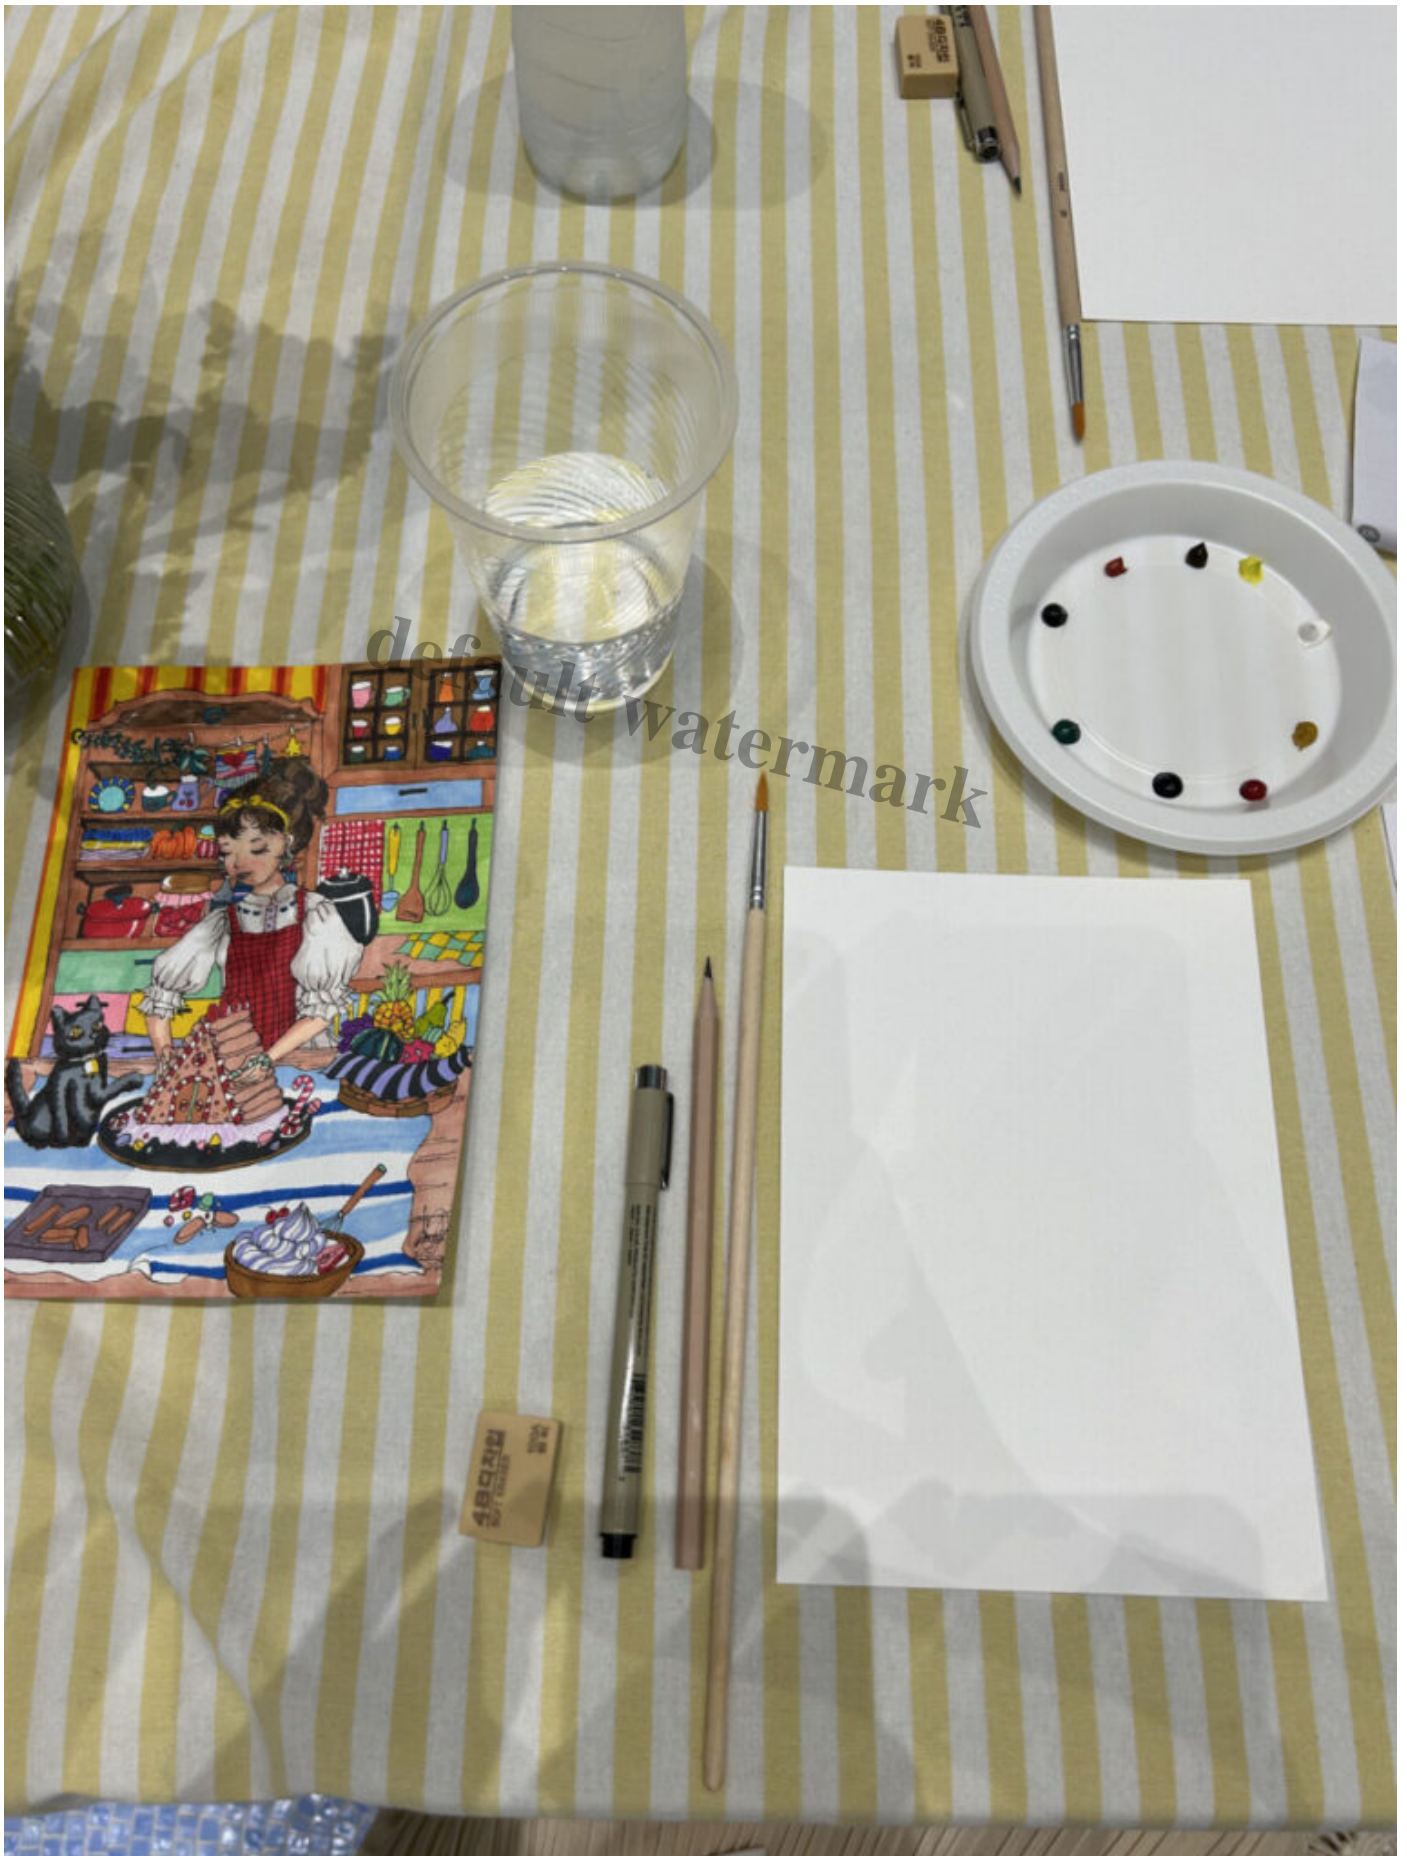

The set up is very extensive. It is not just tables and chairs. A lot of thought was put into hosting this portrait painting workshop.

default watermark

Do not worry. Donâ??t need to draw and paint to that standard.

default watermark

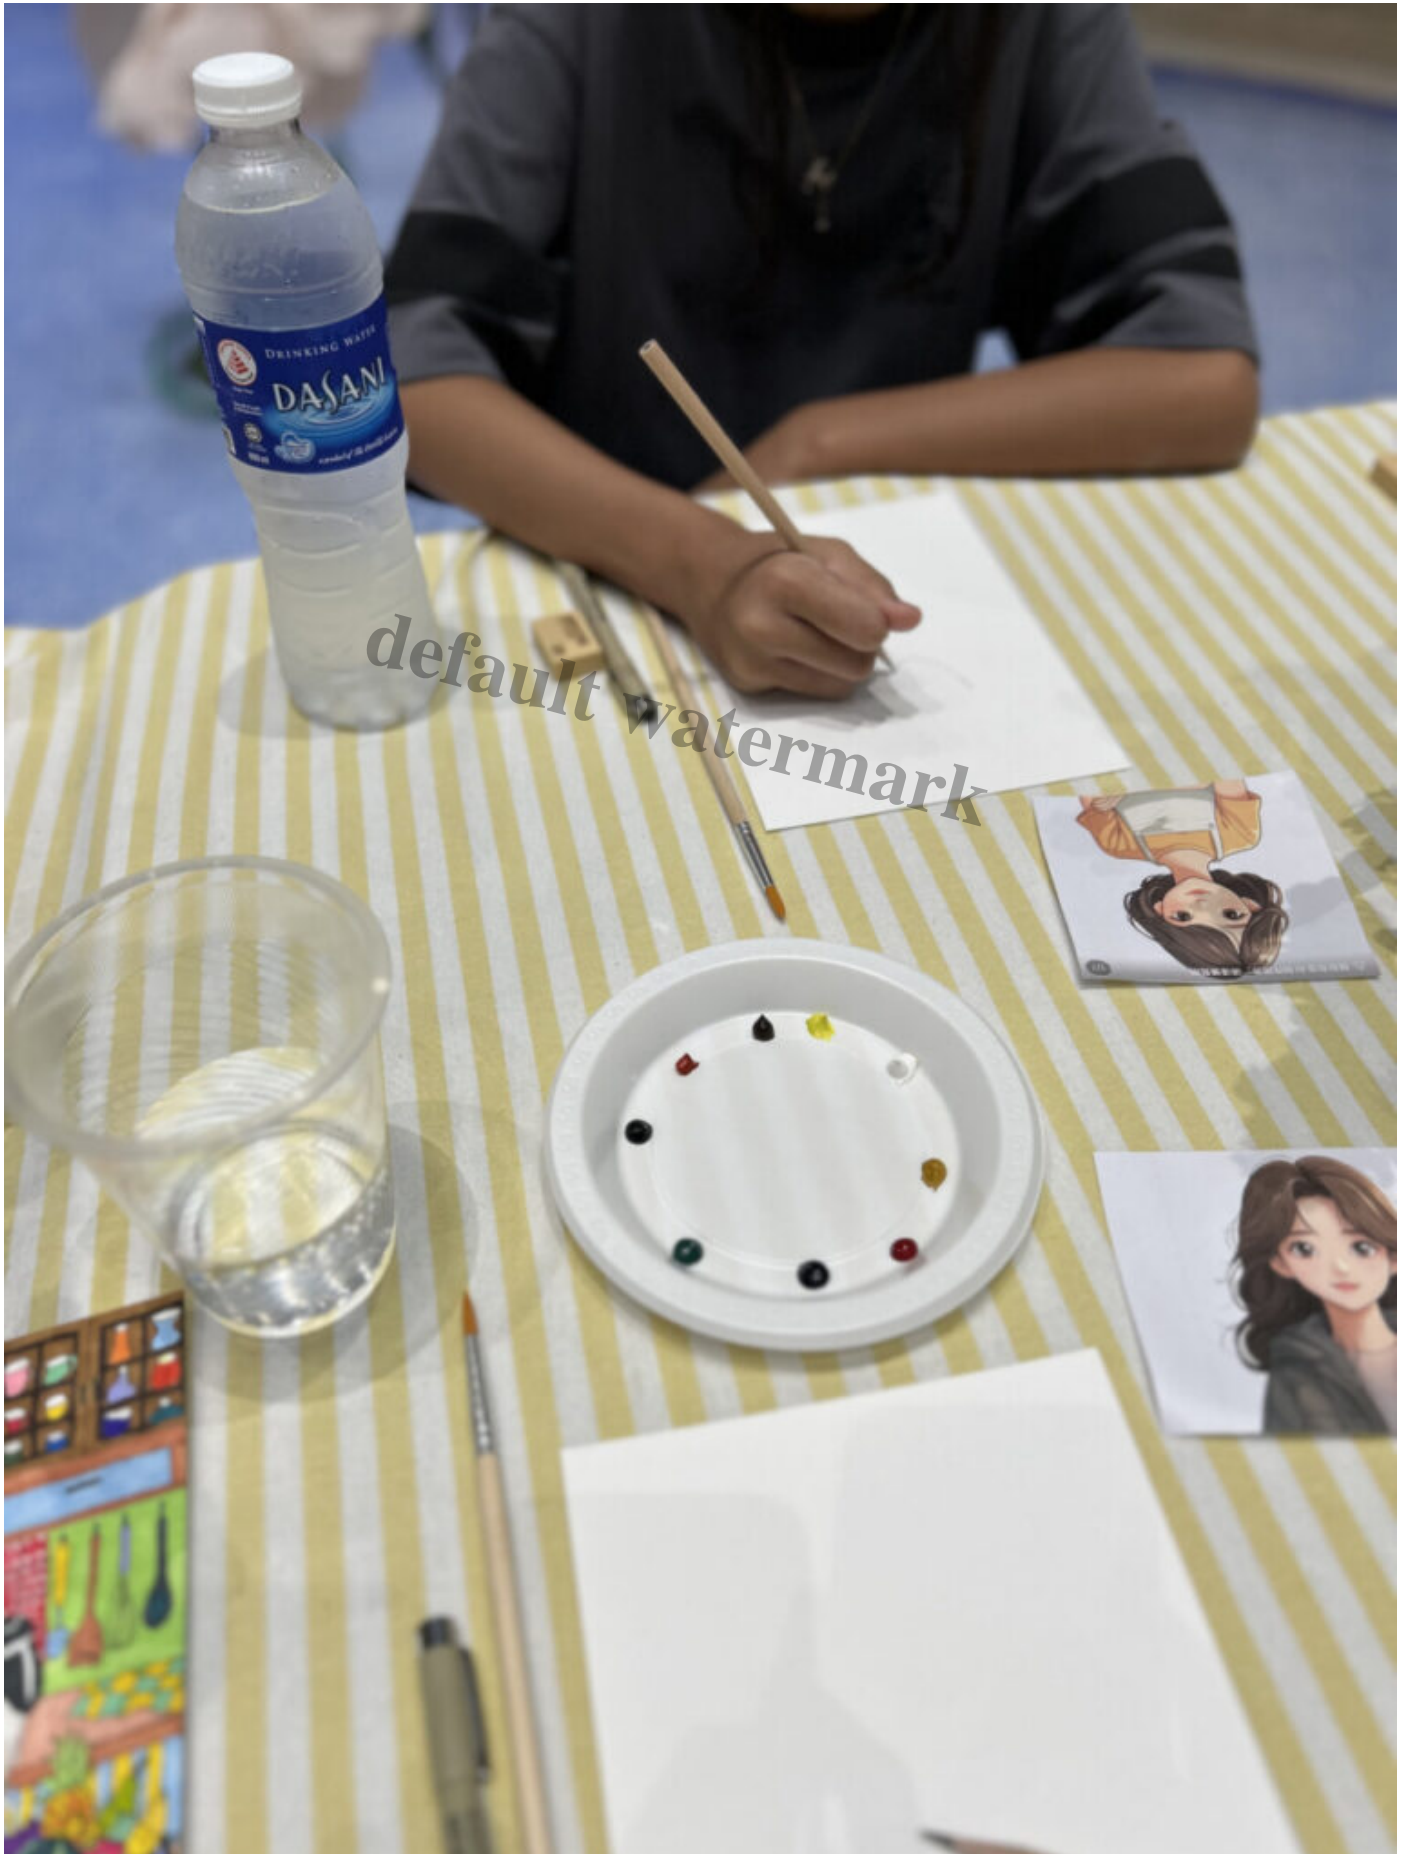

Hamimahâ??s daughter drawing her.

default watermark

We can promise you that she enjoyed herself. These days, children tend to put up these cool looks when their photos are taken.

default watermark

The workshop was full with a lot of participants.

default watermark

Guess which was done by Hamimah and which was done by her daughter.

default watermark

We get a set of cards for the event.

default watermark

The flowers were used to decorate the cards.

default watermark

Overall, very good job Hamimah. No wonder you are in charge of the creatives in the company!

Hey, it is your turn to try this out. This is happening this weekend on 10 and 11 May 2025 at Anchorpoint! A Portrait of Love

Yours sincerely,

The Little Big Red Dot media team on behalf of Hamimah

p.s. here are some pictures from the organiser.

Date Created
05/05/2025
Author
hamimah