Discovery and Youth share the same distances; Youth is for ages 12 to 15.

The entry standard

There is no qualifying time. Anyone can enter as long as they are fit, healthy and capable of completing the event, and entrants are advised to read the Health Advice page and consider the PAR-Q questionnaire. There is no registration on race morning, and confirmed entries are non-refundable and individual entries are non-transferable. Registration closes on the published closing dates or when the field is full, whichever comes first.

The swim follows a guide rope with rolling starts, and the run goes along Sentosaâ??s beachfront. The 2027 course maps and race-day schedule have not been published yet.

What the entry covers

Race kits are collected on site on race day, and the organiser asks athletes to arrive at least an hour before their start. The aquathlon kit holds a swim cap, a race bib worn on the front for the run and a timing chip for the left ankle. Every category except Fun Kids picks two items from four: a T-shirt or a Velcro patch, and a mesh bag or a foldable bucket hat.

Each entry includes a Triathlon Association of Singapore day-of-race licence with personal accident cover for ages 4 to 85, paying S$10,000 for death or permanent disability and S$500 for accidental medical expenses.

The three-race package

A 3-in-1 package covers the aquathlon, duathlon and triathlon, and the saving depends on the category. At normal rates, XL is S$515 against S$610 for three separate entries, a saving of S$95. Sprint is S$339 against S$404, saving S$65, and Discovery is S$253 against S$293, saving S$40. Youth saves S$40 at S$220, and Kids saves S$30 at S$182. At final rates the XL saving drops to S$90 and Sprint to S$60, while Discovery, Youth and Kids keep the same savings.
