

Must-Try Lok Lok in Mount Austin Johor Bahru

Description

When it comes to supper in Johor Bahru, a few iconic dishes are must-haves. Among the most popular are Wonton Noodles, Ramly Burgers, and the ever-delicious Lok Lok. Lok Lok, a skewered street food delight, is ubiquitous across JB's popular districts, and I have my favorite spots scattered throughout the city.

One of the hippest and trendiest areas in Johor Bahru is Mount Austin, a district buzzing with a growing number of restaurants and cafes. A night-time drive through Mount Austin is incomplete without a stop at the vibrant and bustling Bro Lok Lok.

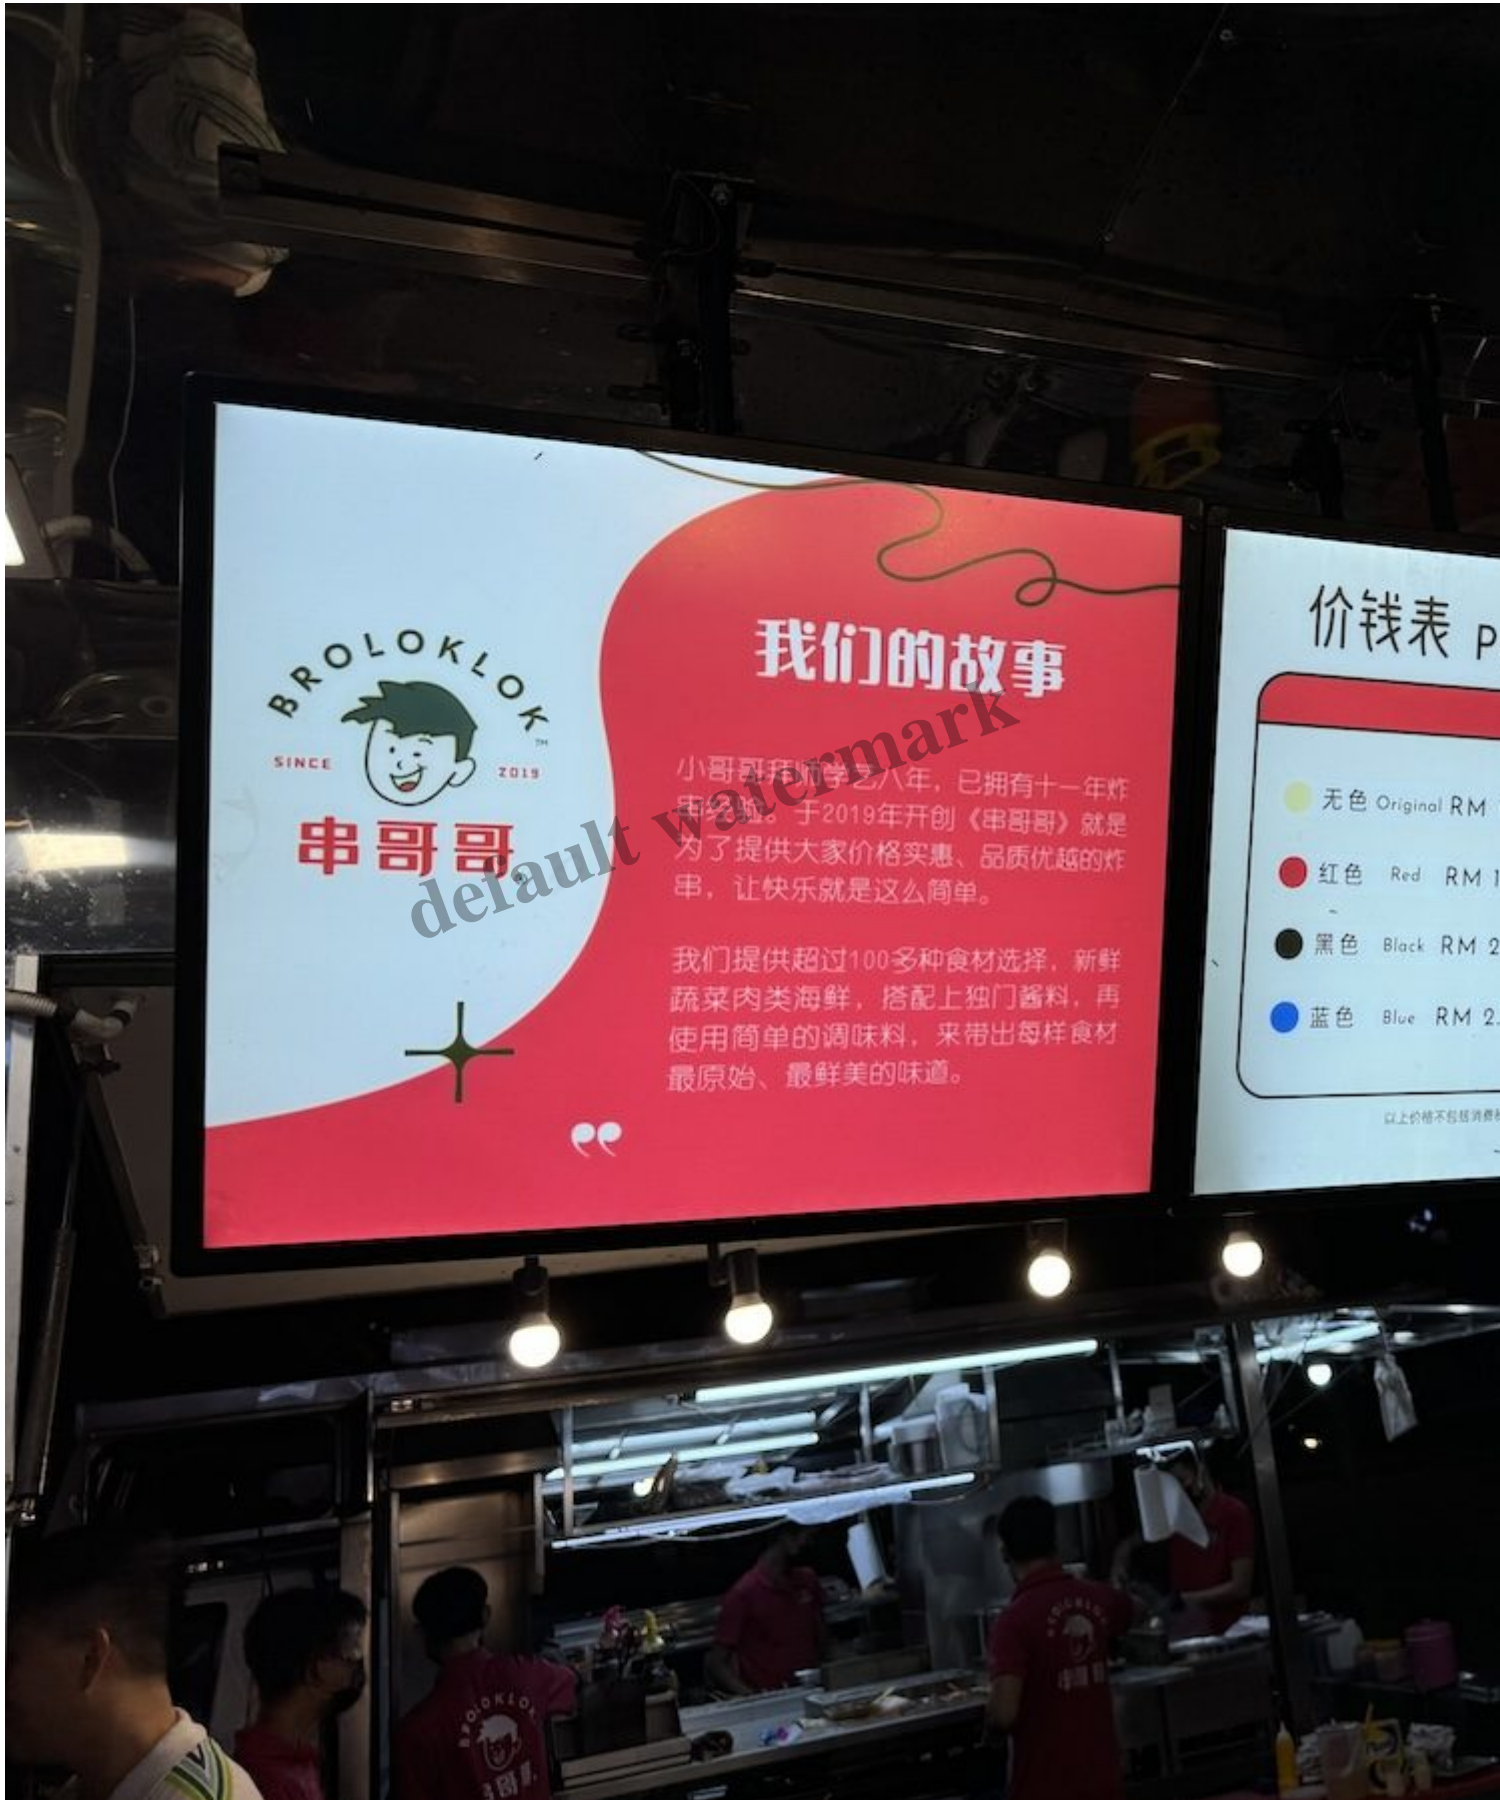

Bro Lok Lok distinguishes itself from other Lok Lok shops with its unique air-conditioned shopfront, providing a comfortable dining experience regardless of the weather.

The pricing is transparent and straightforward, with different color-coded skewer prices clearly displayed on LCD panels. This helps customers make informed choices without any confusion.

What truly draws people to Bro Lok Lok is their extensive menu. The sheer variety can be overwhelming, but in the best possible way.

Customers can choose between frying or boiling their skewers, depending on their preference. The efficient working stations inside the trucks ensure that your food is prepared just the way you like it.

Even though we had a heavy dinner earlier, we couldn't resist sampling a few items during our supper session.

My personal favorite, wherever I go, is the Bak Kwa. The experience of eating Bak Kwa is elevated by heating it up, making it a must-try.
