

Ottie Pancakes At SingPost Centre: MJK Opening Guide Till 30 June

Description

default watermark

Ottie Pancakes is now open at SingPost Centre, giving east-side and Paya Lebar commuters a new quick snack option built around traditional Min Jiang Kueh, also known to many Singaporeans as MJK or Apam Balik.

The mall listing runs from 6 May to 30 June 2026 and places the stall at #01-116. That makes it useful for office workers, families passing through Paya Lebar and anyone looking for a warm pancake stop before taking the train.

What Is On The Menu Angle

SingPost Centre describes Ottie Pancakes as bringing a modern twist to the classic MJK format. The promise is soft, fluffy pancakes with both familiar and more adventurous fillings, so the draw is less about a full meal and more about a portable snack that travels well.

If you track new casual openings, keep this one beside our Food & Drinks coverage because the unit sits in a mall with steady commuter traffic rather than a destination dining stretch.

- Location: SingPost Centre #01-116.
- Listed promotion window: 6 May to 30 June 2026.
- Format: traditional MJK / Apam Balik-style pancakes with modern fillings.
- Best fit: takeaway snack, tea break or a quick family treat.

Ottie Pancakes brings modern flavours to the traditional MJK pancake format.

How To Plan A Visit

The practical advantage is location. SingPost Centre is directly connected to the Paya Lebar interchange area, so Ottie Pancakes works best as a low-commitment stop before errands, after lunch or on the way home.

Because the listing is tied to a mall promotion window, visit earlier in the day if you are aiming for the widest choice of fillings. Pancake stalls can move quickly during lunch and post-work snack periods.

Who Should Bookmark It

This is most relevant for readers who like traditional snacks but want something more current than the usual peanut-and-coconut rotation. It also gives SingPost Centre another small-format food option for families who need a fast bite without sitting down for a full meal.

The best reader move is simple: save the unit number, watch for any flavour updates from the mall, and treat it as a Paya Lebar snack stop rather than a destination restaurant.

Location Notes

- Ottie Pancakes at SingPost Centre

Date Created
09/06/2026
Author
meichua

default watermark