

Peranakan Passages At Peranakan Museum: HeritageFest Family Guide

Description

Peranakan Passages at Peranakan Museum gives families a timely Singapore HeritageFest stop before 24 May 2026. The programme is part of the festival, with museum opening hours as the anchor.

That makes it useful for parents who want culture, air-conditioning and a central location without committing to a long ticketed show.

Peranakan Passages is listed as a Singapore HeritageFest programme at Peranakan Museum.

How To Plan With Children

Start with the programme, then move into one or two galleries. Peranakan objects are visually rich, so children can look for colours, beadwork, patterns, food references and family stories before you explain the history.

The Armenian Street location also helps. It is easy to pair the museum with a Bras Basah or City Hall meal, then keep the rest of the day light.

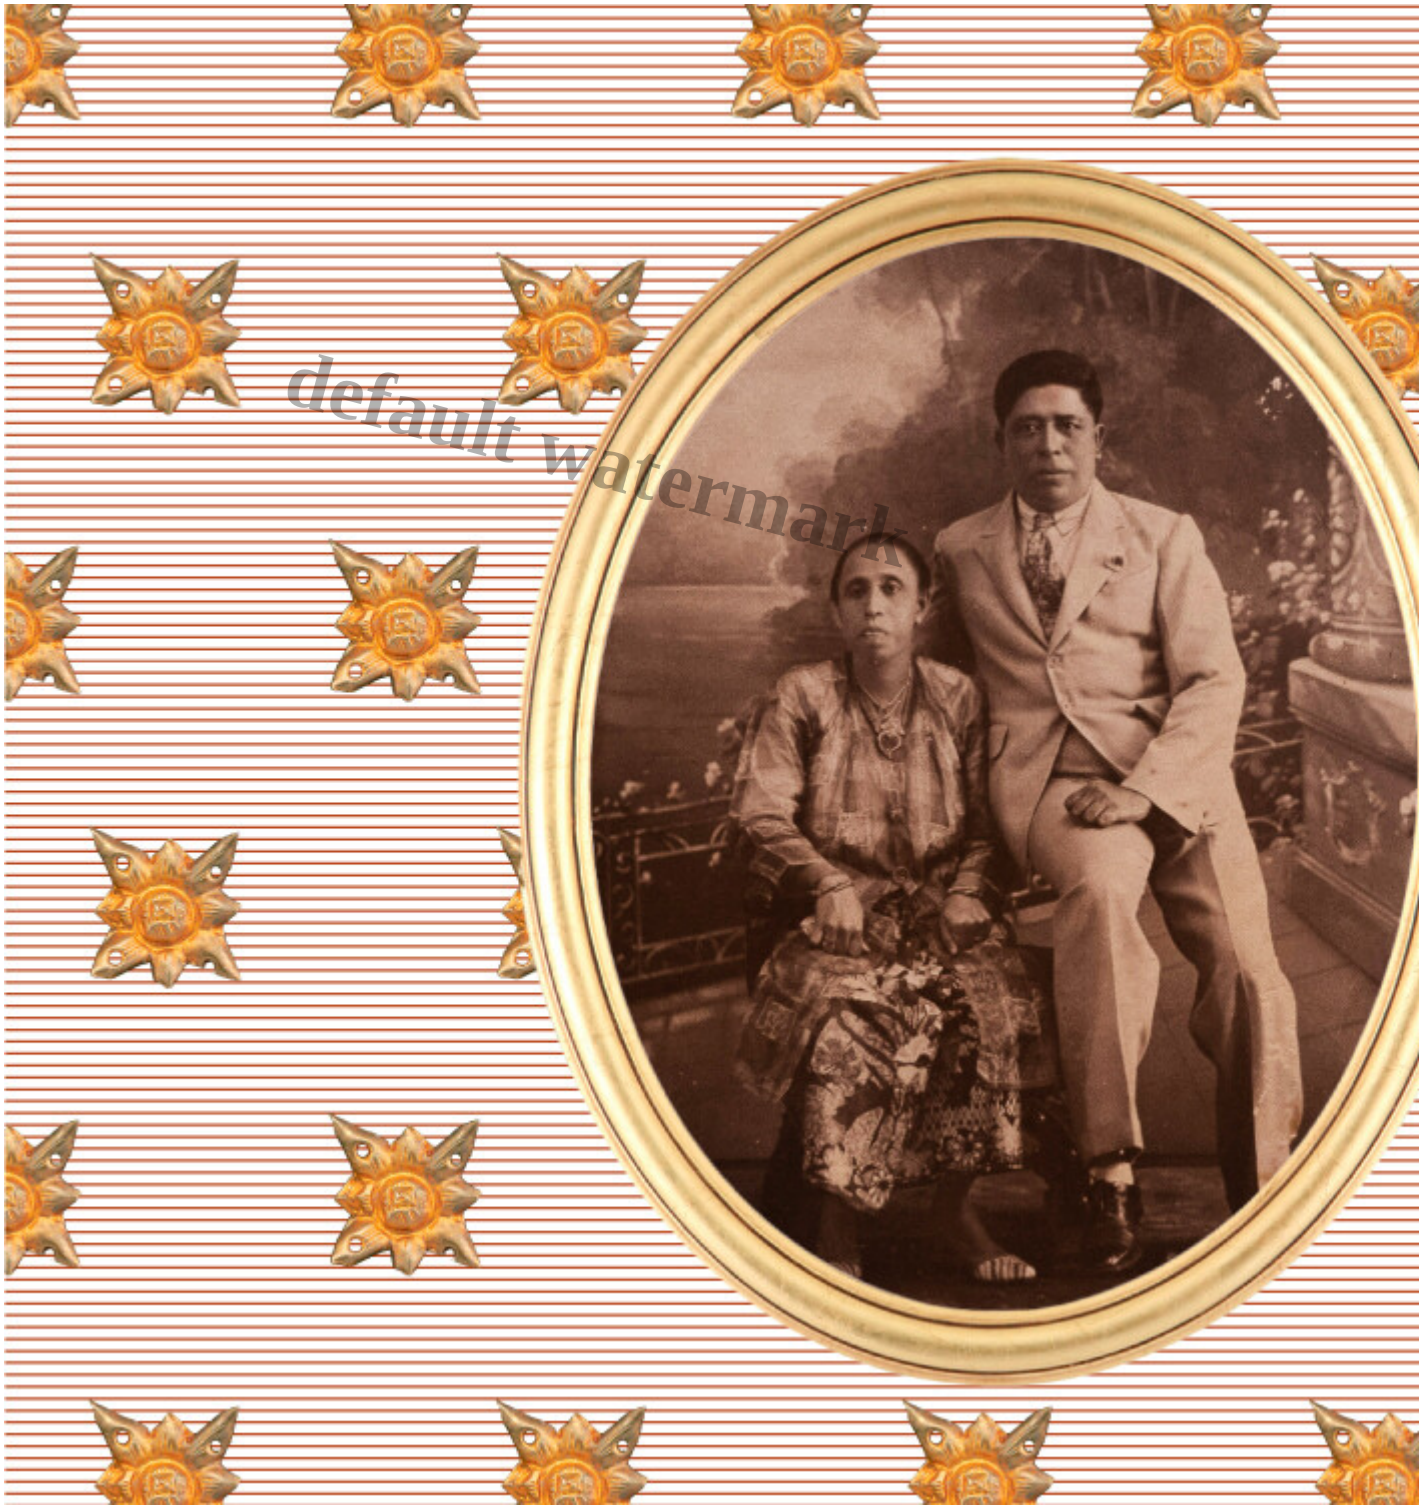

Peranakan Museum's family and community galleries help children connect heritage with people.

What To Talk About

Use the visit to ask simple questions: who might have worn this, cooked this or kept this at home? If your family prefers science-led discovery, our ONE Ocean Science Centre guide offers another indoor option.

Younger children may respond more to colours, food and patterns than historical detail. That is fine. The goal is to make heritage feel close, not to deliver a full lesson.

The museum's origins gallery gives families a starting point for Peranakan history.
