The Resorts World Sentosa Stay and Play package starts at S$868.60 and goes up to S$936.60, depending on which attractions you pick. You can book until 31 December 2026 and stay until 6 January 2027, so it covers the school holidays and the year-end break. Everything below comes from the resortâ??s own promotion page, checked on 28 November 2026.

Resorts World Sentosa Stay and Play package: the two versions

- Singapore Oceanarium plus Universal Studios Singapore: from S$936.60.
- Singapore Oceanarium plus Adventure Cove Waterpark: from S$868.60.

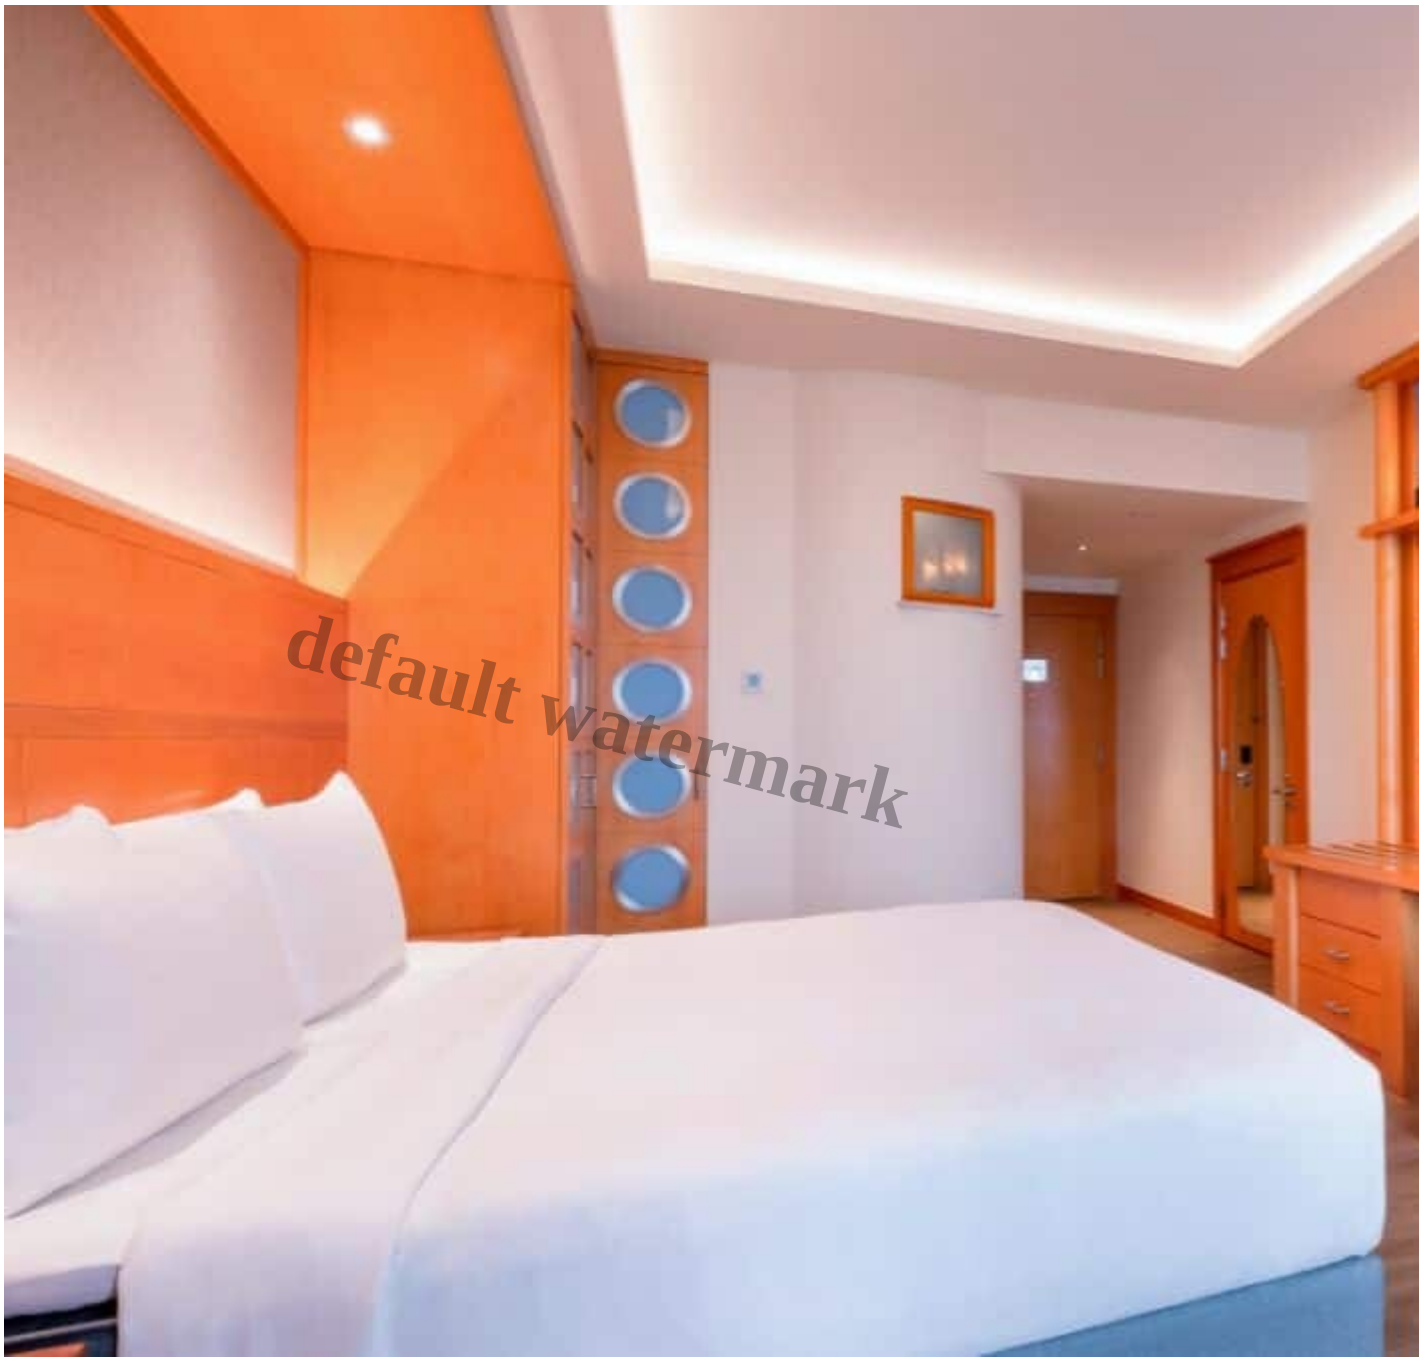

Both need a minimum two-night stay. The page does not show a crossed-out original price, so I cannot tell you a percentage saving. It does give you a package that bundles things you would otherwise book one by one.

What is included

- Two nights in a Deluxe Room at Hotel Michael, Hotel Ora or Equarius Hotel, or a Deluxe Suite at Crockfords Tower.
- Breakfast for two adults.
- Two adult one-day tickets to Singapore Oceanarium (ages 13 to 59).
- Two adult one-day tickets to either Universal Studios Singapore (ages 13 and above) or Adventure Cove Waterpark (ages 13 and above).
- A S$20 nett Resorts World Sentosa gift voucher per stay.

The Universal version adds complimentary parking and a complimentary minibar with daily replenishment. Those two extras are listed under the Universal package only, so do not assume the waterpark version has them.

The fine print

Tickets are valid for seven consecutive days from the date of issuance. That is a generous window for a two-night stay, but it also means you cannot hoard them for a later trip. The sales period ends on 31 December 2026, and the visit period ends on 6 January 2027.

The page prices are listed as starting rates, so the final figure for your dates depends on the room and the night. Peak December weekends and the New Year stretch are usually where the price climbs, so check a few date combinations in the booking engine. If you are travelling with kids under 13, note that the package lists adult tickets only, so ask the resort what the child tickets cost before you pay.

Getting there and booking

The hotels sit within Resorts World Sentosa at 8 Sentosa Gateway. Take the MRT to HarbourFront, then hop on the Sentosa Express monorail to Resorts World Station. If you drive, the Universal package includes complimentary parking, which is useful given how quickly Sentosa car park charges add up.

Book on the Resorts World Sentosa promotion page and pick your room, since the price shown is the starting rate. Read the Terms and Conditions link on that page before you pay. It is also worth screenshotting the package inclusions in case the front desk asks.

Is it a good lobang?

Do a quick sum. Add the two room nights at your preferred dates, then four attraction tickets, breakfast for two and a S$20 voucher you will probably spend anyway. If the total is close to the package price, the bundle wins on convenience alone, since you walk into the park with tickets already in hand.

If you already have attraction tickets from another promotion, a room-only booking may be cheaper. Our piece on the SAFRA Universal Studios Singapore 1-for-1 tickets shows one way to cut the ticket cost, and the Pan Pacific Singapore staycation is a non-Sentosa alternative if you want a city stay.
