Singapore Airlines will increase its Singapore-Amsterdam route from daily to 10 weekly services between 1 August and 22 October 2026, according to its 25 May press release.

The additional flights are listed as SQ334 from Singapore to Amsterdam on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with SQ333 returning from Amsterdam on the same days.

Added Flight Pattern

SQ334 is scheduled to depart Singapore at 11.10am and arrive in Amsterdam at 6.35pm local time. SQ333 is scheduled to depart Amsterdam at 8.35pm and arrive in Singapore at 3.40pm the following day.

SIA says the added flights will use the long-haul variant of the Airbus A350-900 aircraft. The ongoing daily SQ324 and SQ323 services continue, with the press release noting a Boeing 777-300ER operation from 1 July to 24 October 2026.

Why Travellers Should Notice

Three extra weekly services give Singapore travellers more flexibility for Europe itineraries, especially for trips that connect beyond Amsterdam or need a daytime departure from Singapore.

The airline says tickets for the additional Amsterdam services go on sale from 25 May 2026 through SIA distribution channels.
