Description

Singapore Airlines is handing out S$50 worth of KrisPay miles to the first 200 Mastercard bookers, but only if you book between 11 and 20 November 2026 and clear a minimum spend. Use a KrisFlyer UOB Credit or Debit Mastercard and the bar is S$1,000. Any other valid Mastercard needs S$1,200. So this one only makes sense if you were already buying tickets.

Singapore Airlines Mastercard KrisPay offer: the conditions

The bonus is S$50 in KrisPay miles, credited to your KrisPay wallet in the Kris+ app by 28 February 2027. It is valid for six months after it is issued and cannot be transferred to your KrisFlyer account. You must be a Kris+ member and register for the offer, and new members can sign up through the app.

- Booking window: 11 to 20 November 2026, on singaporeair.com, the SingaporeAir app or Singapore Airlines Appointed Agents
- Itinerary: new tickets where the first boarding point is Singapore
- Minimum spend: S$1,000 on a KrisFlyer UOB Credit or Debit Mastercard, or S$1,200 on any other valid Mastercard
- Limit: first 200 eligible, registered bookings, and one redemption per booking reference

Register before you pay. SIA says the miles are forfeited if you give a wrong KrisFlyer number or never register as a Kris+ member.

Where the KrisPay miles can go

KrisPay miles are spent through Kris+, which SIA says is accepted at over 1,700 partner outlets islandwide. The app also lets you book taxis, make dining reservations, find activities via Pelago and shop on KrisShop. SIA lists a sign-up code, KPSQSG, for S$8 after a first spend of S$5.

It is worth working out how it stacks against a cash discount. S$50 on a S$1,000 spend is 5%, and on S$1,200 it is about 4.2%, but it is locked into one wallet and expires. A S$60 card promo code, like the HSBC one running from 24 November, may beat it on a cheaper trip.

KrisShop and Pelago perks on the same page

SIA also lists a KrisShop pre-order offer for in-flight delivery, in three tiers on top of the 9% tax and duty-free savings. You need a flight booking reference, brand exclusions apply, and the page gives no end date.

- BONUS12: S$12 off with a minimum spend of S$220
- BONUS20: S$20 off with a minimum spend of S$320
- BONUS50: S$50 off with a minimum spend of S$580

Pelago, SIAâ??s travel activities platform, is offering up to S$150 off global activities when you use your Singapore Airlines booking reference. Terms apply, and the page does not state dates, so check the terms on the Pelago page before you plan around it.
