

Singapore Airlines World Cup Live TV: Which KrisWorld Flights Get Sport 24

Description

Singapore Airlines passengers flying during the FIFA World Cup 2026 window may be able to watch matches live at altitude. SIA says customers can enjoy World Cup action from 11 June to 19 July 2026 through Sport 24 on KrisWorld Live TV.

This is useful for travellers because the tournament falls across major holiday and business travel periods. The key is not just whether SIA has the rights, but whether your aircraft and route support Live TV on the day.

Aircraft Listed By SIA

SIA says KrisWorld Live TV is available on all Boeing 787-10 and Boeing 737-8 aircraft, as well as 41 Airbus A350-900 and eight Boeing 777-300ER aircraft. The press release also notes that live broadcasts are subject to satellite coverage, broadcaster arrangements and regulatory approvals on selected routes.

That means passengers should treat Live TV as a strong perk rather than the only way to follow a match. Aircraft swaps, route coverage and broadcast approvals can still affect availability.

- World Cup coverage window: 11 June to 19 July 2026.
- Channel: Sport 24 on KrisWorld Live TV.
- Aircraft listed: all SIA Boeing 787-10 and Boeing 737-8 aircraft.
- Also listed: 41 Airbus A350-900 and eight Boeing 777-300ER aircraft.
- Other Live TV content named by SIA includes BBC News.

How To Plan Around It

If the match matters, note the kick-off time in Singapore time and compare it with your flight sector. Long-haul flights are more likely to overlap with full matches, while shorter sectors may only catch a portion of a game.

Travellers should also remember that Live TV availability depends on aircraft fit and coverage, not only airline branding. If a flight is essential for a specific game, keep a mobile data or airport-lounge backup for the periods before boarding and after landing.

- Best for: long-haul travellers, football fans and transit-heavy itineraries.
- Remember time zones when comparing match and flight times.
- Bring headphones that work comfortably for a full match.
