The Singapore Half Marathon returns to Marina Barrage on Sunday 21 February 2027, with super early bird entries priced from S$78.88 for the 5km to S$98.88 for the 21.1km. Organiser JomRun is bringing the race back after haze forced it to call off the 2026 edition.

Three distances are on offer. The 21.1km is the only competitive race, with chip timing and prizes, while the 10km and 5km are fun runs open to all ages, with no timing chip and no recorded time. Registration runs until 11.59pm on 20 February 2027, the night before the race.

Prices

JomRun has published three price tiers. Super early bird is the one on sale now.

- 5km: S$78.88 super early bird, S$88.88 early bird, S$98.88 normal
- 10km: S$88.88, S$98.88, S$118.88
- 21.1km: S$98.88, S$108.88, S$128.88

Each step up adds S$10 to every distance at the early bird stage. At the normal rate the 10km and 21.1km rise a further S$20 while the 5km rises S$10, so the 10km and half marathon end up S$30 dearer than they are today, and the 5km S$20 dearer. JomRun has not given closing dates for any of the tiers.

Every runner gets a Puma event jersey, a race bib, an e-certificate, light refreshments and a finisher medal, with the medal strictly for those who finish. Half marathon finishers also receive a Puma finisher jersey, and their bibs carry a TrackAsia RFID timing chip.

Entry fees are non-refundable, non-transferable and cannot be deferred to another event, under JomRunâ??s waiver terms, which also let the organiser alter, cancel or postpone an event.

An early start

The race village opens at 3.30am. Half marathon runners have a warm-up at 3.45am and a safety briefing at 3.55am before the 4am flag-off, and get four hours to finish.

The 10km sets off at 7.30am with a two-hour cut-off, and the 5km at 7.45am with one hour. There is a Zumba session at 8.10am, prizes at 8.30am and the village closes at 10am.

Half marathon runners race in four categories: menâ??s and womenâ??s Open for those 39 and below, and menâ??s and womenâ??s Veteran for 40 and above. The top five in each category win a trophy, decided on gun time, although both gun time and nett time are recorded.

What is still to come

Race pack collection dates, times and venue are still to be confirmed, and so is the route map.

The 2026 race was called off because of worsening haze, with JomRun saying air quality made it unsafe to go ahead. Registered runners could collect their jerseys, medals and bibs at the Marina Barrage Activity Centre on 9 and 10 October. JomRun also promised each of them one free entry to a selected fun run in the first half of 2027, with a discount code to be sent once registration for that race opens. It has not said which race that will be.

JomRun runs the event on its own, and it is not connected with the BYD Singapore International Marathon or that raceâ??s organiser, SG International Marathon.
