Description

Singapore Sports Hubâ??s pool schedule flags the 21st Singapore National Swimming Championships 2026 from Tuesday, 26 May, affecting public access at the OCBC Aquatic Centre competition pool. For regular swimmers, the practical point is to check pool availability before making a wasted trip.

The late-May schedule shows normal public windows earlier in the month, then championship-related blocks as the event period begins.

Why It Matters

National meets are where Singaporeâ??s competitive swimmers chase timings, selection standards and racing sharpness. Even if you are not following every heat, the event is a reminder that public sports facilities also serve elite and development pathways.

For families, club swimmers and casual lap swimmers, the disruption is manageable if you plan around the posted schedule.

Before You Go

Check the latest Sports Hub schedule on the day itself, especially if you are planning evening or weekend swims. Competition set-ups can affect pool lanes, warm-up space and access windows.
