

Singapore Stadium Events: July–September 2026 Guide

Description

Kallang’s next major public events range from free overnight World Cup screenings to five ticketed arena and stadium dates. The fastest choice is by format: football fans have three remaining free screenings at Kallang Wave Mall; concertgoers can compare MAMAMOO, Kit Chan, Post Malone and Anirudh; dance supporters have the two-day Super 24 finals.

Last checked: 15 July 2026. Event and promotion details can change; use the linked organiser page before travelling or paying.

Remaining free World Cup screenings

The Kallang's free screening programme uses a 3m by 5m LED screen in the Kallang Wave Mall Atrium. The 15 July semi-final had passed when this guide was checked. The remaining doors and kick-off times are:

- Second semi-final: doors 2.30am, kick-off 3am on Thursday, 16 July.
- Third-place match: doors 4.30am, kick-off 5am on Sunday, 19 July.
- Final: doors 2.30am, kick-off 3am on Monday, 20 July.

Seating includes bean bags and deck chairs, so capacity is not unlimited. The organiser also lists foosball, under-table soccer, a photo booth and collectible trading cards while stocks last. Kallang Kaki members can register for a lucky draw on 19 and 20 July, with a 55-inch Hisense Q6 television listed as the prize. Treat giveaways and parking coupons as limited extras, not reasons to delay arrival.

MAMAMOO: full quartet and the widest K-pop price ladder

Solar, Moon Byul, Whee In and Hwa Sa bring the 4WARD anniversary tour to the Indoor Stadium on 31 July. Official prices run from S$178 for CAT 7 restricted view to S$358 for VIP standing or VIP seated. Standard categories between those points range from S$198 to S$318. Booking fees are S$8 for tickets priced S$101 to S$300 and S$10 for tickets above S$301, with a six-ticket transaction limit.

Restricted view should be read literally: compare the seating map and stage geometry before choosing it purely on price. The venue allows children aged two and above with a ticket but does not admit infants under two. Bags must not exceed 35cm by 20cm by 30cm.

Super 24: choose the competition segment first

Super 24 places 24 dancers inside an eight-by-eight-metre square for 90-second routines with no fixed front. The 29 August day pass covers tertiary finals, open qualifiers and open junior finals from 10am to about 10.30pm; prices are S$68 Arena, S$58 Terrace and S$28 Balcony.

Sunday is structured differently. Secondary finals run around noon to 3.30pm and the open finals around 6.30pm to 10.30pm. Arena and Terrace are S$58 and S$48 respectively, while Balcony is S$28. Supporters should confirm the crew's division and session before buying; the cheapest seat for the wrong segment has no value.

Three September concerts, three different decisions

Kit Chan: fixed seats and a four-ticket cap

Kit Chan's Mandarin-language Atrium Live Tour has five categories from S$128 to S$288. The four-ticket transaction limit matters for larger family groups. BookMyShow is the listed official channel, and the venue lists a S$6 booking fee for tickets above S$50. This is an all-seated choice where balanced sight lines may matter more than being in the closest available category.

Post Malone: stadium scale, but no published venue-page price

Post Malone plays the National Stadium on 25 September with Don Toliver listed as special guest for the Asia tour. General sale began through Ticketmaster on 10 April and VIP packages are available, but The Kallang's official event page still said "more details on pricing coming soon" when checked. Readers should not rely on unsourced resale listings as a price guide.

The National Stadium page lists a six-ticket limit, no admission below age six, and the same 35cm by 20cm by 30cm bag limit. A stadium show creates longer walking and exit times than an arena show; agree on a post-show meeting point before mobile networks become congested.

Anirudh: seated versus standing is the first choice

Anirudh Ravichander's 15th-anniversary Tamil concert offers seated CAT 1's tickets from S$175 to S$450, plus standing pens from S$175 to S$250. The official channel is SISTIC, the general-sale limit is 12 tickets and the listed booking fee is S$8 per ticket above S$70.

Standing changes the practical plan: consider footwear, queue time, hydration and whether everyone in the group is comfortable without a fixed seat. No infants or children below two are admitted; everyone aged two and above needs a ticket.

Common entry and scam checks

- Buy only through the official agent linked by The Kallang. The venue warns that resold tickets may not be honoured.
- Most listed events prohibit oversized bags, outside food and drink, professional camera equipment, selfie sticks, gimbals and live streaming.
- Arrive before doors if collecting tickets or merchandise. Security checks can create a second queue after the transport queue.
- Use Stadium MRT for the closest access, but consider walking to an adjacent station after a National Stadium crowd if directed by venue staff.
