

Singapore Women host Bangladesh at Jalan Besar on 5 December, with tickets from S$7.50 on sale from 15 November

Description

default watermark

The Singapore Womenâ??s national team, the Lionesses, will host Bangladesh at Jalan Besar Stadium at 7.30pm on Saturday 5 December 2026. Tickets cost S$15 for adults and S$7.50 for concessions, and go on sale online only at 10am on Sunday 15 November.

The Football Association of Singapore (FAS) announced the two international â??Aâ?? friendlies on 12 November. The first, at Bishan Stadium on Tuesday 1 December, is behind closed doors, so the Saturday game is the only one fans can attend. Both kick off at 7.30pm.

The Lionesses after beating Cambodia for third place at the AFF Womenâ??s Cup in Kuala Lumpur on 22 July 2026. Photo: Football Association of Singapore

Tickets and getting in

- Adults: S$15
- Concession: S$7.50, for students aged 16 and below and seniors aged 60 and above with a valid concession card
- Ticketing fee: S$1 per ticket on top of both prices
- Sales: from 10am on Sunday 15 November, at fas.org.sg/tickets only

There is no box office and no ticket sales at the stadium on matchday, so buy in advance. Home supporters sit at the North Gate and away supporters at the South Gate. The nearest MRT stations are Lavender on the East-West Line and Bendemeer on the Downtown Line.

default watermark

Singapore Women v Bangladesh, Saturday 5 December 2026, 7.30pm, Jalan Besar Stadium. Graphic: Football Association of Singapore

A wide gap in the rankings

Singapore are 151st in the FIFA Womenâ??s World Ranking and Bangladesh are 106th, and both December games count towards the ranking. The sides last met in Dhaka in December 2023, when Bangladesh won both friendlies, 3-0 and 8-0.

These are the Lionessesâ?? first home matches of the year, and head coach Mihoko Ishidaâ??s first in charge at home. The squad will be named later.

â??While Bangladesh are ranked considerably higher, we see these matches as a platform to understand more clearly what we need to do and where we need to improve,â?• Ishida said. â??Our approach does not change: instead of focusing on the opponent, we focus on ourselves and play our football.â?•

default watermark

Singaporeâ??s goalkeeper celebrates during the AFF Womenâ??s Cup third-place play-off against Cambodia in Kuala Lumpur on 22 July 2026. Photo: Football Association of Singapore

Building towards 2027

The window is preparation for two tournaments next year: the ASEAN Womenâ??s Championship in April and the SEA Games in Malaysia in September. Singapore earned the ASEAN place in July, drawing 1-1 with Cambodia in the AFF Womenâ??s Cup third-place play-off in Kuala Lumpur and winning the shoot-out 4-3. Danelle Tan scored Singaporeâ??s goal that night, her fourth of the tournament, which made her its top scorer.

Ishida pointed to the turnout at Octoberâ??s Womenâ??s Football Week. â??I have seen the growing support for womenâ??s football, from the players in our domestic league to our U16 girls, and I hope you will join us at Jalan Besar Stadium to keep that going,â?• she said.

default watermark

A Singapore player with the AFF Womenâ??s Cup 2026 top goal scorer award in Kuala Lumpur, July 2026. Photo: Football Association of Singapore

Date Created
13/11/2026
Author

jadeyeo

default watermark