Tips for Getting the Most Out of Your Visit

Go early or on a weekday. While the show runs from 12PM, arriving earlier means shorter queues at popular booths. Thursday and Friday afternoons are typically less crowded than the weekend.

Bring a list. With so many products on display, it's easy to get overwhelmed. Before you go, jot down the rooms in your home you're looking to upgrade and what products you're interested in. This keeps your shopping focused and intentional.

Compare prices on the spot. Use your phone to check retail prices for items you're considering. Show discounts are only a good deal if they're genuinely below what you'd pay elsewhere.

Don't miss the Voucher Drops. These are limited-time giveaways where exhibitors release special vouchers at specific times. Follow the Smart Home Tech Show's social media accounts to find out when and where the drops are happening.

Take your time. With hundreds of booths spread across six halls, plan to spend at least 2-3 hours to properly explore the entire show.

Why This Show Matters for Singaporeans

As Singapore's homes get smarter - from BTO flats with integrated digital locks to private condominiums equipped with whole-home automation - events like the Smart Home Tech Show are increasingly relevant to everyday Singaporeans.

With more people working from home and spending more time in their living spaces, the demand for technology that makes life more comfortable, efficient, and secure has never been higher. This show is an excellent opportunity to get hands-on with the latest innovations without having to visit multiple stores across the island.
