

Songs That Coloured My Youth: Free RHAUN Sets At Esplanade

Description

Songs That Coloured My Youth brings RHAUN to Esplanade Concourse on Saturday, 23 May 2026, for free sets in the Songs We Grew Up With series.

It is a simple weekend arts pick for readers who want live music around Marina Bay without buying a concert ticket.

Why It Works

The series leans on familiar songs and personal memory, which makes it approachable even for casual listeners. It is also a useful reminder that Esplanade's free programming can be a genuine night-out option, not just background music for passers-by.

Because the Concourse is open and free, atmosphere depends on the crowd. Arrive early if you want to stand near the performance area.

Planning Notes

Pair the show with dinner around Esplanade, CityLink, Marina Square or Suntec. If you are bringing older relatives or children, plan where to sit before the set starts.

Location

Esplanade Concourse, 1 Esplanade Drive, Singapore 038981
Google Maps | Apple Maps

Performance details are on Esplanade's Songs That Coloured My Youth page.

For more local planning reads, see our guides to SkillsFuture support, museum events and ArtScience exhibitions.

Date Created

20/05/2026

Author

nuraisyah

default watermark