The Tokyo Holiday Edit pop-up at Stamford Square

From 2 December, the Stamford Square pop-up outside LUMINE SINGAPOREâ??s Level 1 entrance at Raffles City turns into a floral winter wonderland. Three labels take centre stage, two of them making their LUMINE SINGAPORE debut.

- MARY QUANT: founded in 1960s London and loved in Japan for over five decades, the label debuts at LUMINE SINGAPORE with gift-ready pieces featuring its iconic daisy motif.
- dazzlin: the Japanese womenswear label also debuts, with soft colours, lace and ruffles designed to go from daytime to Christmas dinner.

- MERCURYDUO: returning with its â??MAKE MY DUOâ?• concept, pairing feminine silhouettes with floral prints, lace and satin.

Why it is worth a visit

LUMINE SINGAPORE has been a steady source of Japanese pop-ups this year, from the gelato pique debut to its National Day activations. The Tokyo Holiday Edit is a good excuse to browse Raffles City before the Christmas crowds peak.
