In a nutshell, their food appeals visually and tastes delicious and creates surprises.

I have been there a couple of times and this time for our Chinese New Year reunion dinner celebration.

All the dishes ordered are new to me. Some could have already been on the menu all along but Iâ??m pretty sure I spotted a few new items.

Starters â?? ì??ë¦¬í?? ë§?ì?¤ì¹´í•¬ë?¤ Black Bean Mascarpone with sourdough crackers, stimulates your appetite for more good things to come.

Another starter â?? ë?•ë¶?ê¹?ì¹? Tofu Kimchi, again with sourdough bread.

I much prefer the Black Bean Mascarpone.

Cold dish â?? ì?¡í?? Yuk Hoe, seasoned raw beef dish. The accompanying condiments adds a refreshing and crips quality to the dish. Recommended to try if you are game for raw meat.

Hot dish â?? ì??ë •ì»¬¦¬í??ë•¼ì?? Yangnyeom Cauliflower, I love this dish. Never knew cauliflower can taste so good, almost a meaty feel to it.

Hot dish â?? í?¸ê°•ì ? Hogam Jeon, Korean seafood pancake with mozzarella cheese. This is a crowd favourite and a must order. Pairs well with soju.

Hot dish â?? ë•¼ì§? ë¼? ë?±ì?¬ Dwaeji Ppyeo Deungsim, grilled iberico pork. Korean cuisine staple. Not wow but itâ??s not too bad either.

Mains â?? ê°?ë¹?ì°? Galbi Jjim, another meat dish, beef short ribs. The sides are refillable once. Not our first choice. We wanted to order the Bossam but it was sold out.

Sides â?? ì??ë°¥ Ssambob, rice roll with cabbage. Will probably skip this next time.

Desserts â?? ë?¸ê¸° ë¹?ì?? Strawberry bingsu, this was good. The shaved ice was soft and fluffy. The condense milk contains makgeolli. Itâ??s a delightful and refreshing combination. You got to try this.

My personal verdict:

Food: 4.5/5 (one of the better Korean restaurants in Singapore)

Service: 4.5/5 (the service crew are generally friendly and attentive)

Ambience: 4.5/5 (the tables are well spaced apart, the ambience is cozy)

I would recommend you check out their starters, cold and hot dishes. Those are exceptional.
