

vivo V70 Series Launches in Singapore: ZEISS Cameras, 200MP Shooter and All-Day Battery

Description

Smartphone fans looking for a capable mid-range device with serious camera credentials have a strong new contender. vivo Singapore has officially launched the V70 Series, comprising the vivo V70 and the vivo V70 FE — two phones that bring advanced imaging, long-lasting battery life and AI-powered features to the table at accessible price points.

vivo V70: ZEISS-Powered, Built for Content

The V70 is the premium tier of the series. Its standout feature is a ZEISS co-engineered 50MP super telephoto camera with up to 10x zoom — impressive territory for a device in this price range. Pair that with AI Stage Mode for capturing live performances and 4K 60fps video, and you have a seriously capable smartphone camera system.

Built on an aerospace-grade aluminium alloy frame with an AG glass back, the V70 features a vibrant 1.5K OLED display and runs OriginOS 6. Under the hood, a 6,500mAh battery with 90W fast charging handles even heavy daily usage. Available in Golden Hour and Alpine Grey.

vivo V70 FE: 200MP Camera, 7,000mAh Battery

The V70 FE is aimed at travel photographers and on-the-go content creators. Its headline spec is an extraordinary 200MP ultra-clear main camera with up to 30x zoom, alongside advanced AI editing tools built for everyday creativity. It also houses the largest battery in the V Series at 7,000mAh ideal for full-day shoots. Despite the big battery, it maintains a slim and lightweight design. Available in Muse Purple and Ocean Blue.
